State Pension Checks Held Up; $1,000,000 In U.S. Aid Is Delayed

Labor Department Faces Possibility of Missing Pay Roll Today as Officials Clash Over Accounts.

Federal funds to Georgia totalling more than $1,000,000 for the current quarter were in peril last night as a three-way row developed at the state capitol, with Governor Tammidge and Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huie on one side, the Social Security Board on the other, and State Treasurer George B. Hamilton thrown in as a third party.

The State Labor Department faced the possibility that it might not be able to make its regular payroll today because the quarterly allotment of $253,073.38 from the federal government for administrative purposes had not been turned over to the state.

A similar crisis arose in the State Department of Public Welfare, which receives approximately $900,000 per quarter from the federal government to match state funds for old-age pensions. The pensions also were scheduled to go out today.

Conferences were held throughout the day in an effort to reach some agreement that would release the funds. The first took place yesterday morning in the Governor's office with Huie and a representative of the Social Security Board attending. Later yesterday afternoon Huie conferred again with officials of the board.

State officials were reluctant, however, to discuss what transpired at the meetings. They dodged direct questions as to the status of the funds, although it was learned the federal allotment to the Labor Department was stopped two weeks ago.

Commissioner Huie said he might be a "day or two late" in making his payroll but expressed the opinion everything would be worked out so that he would receive his funds.

Welfare Director B. S. Miller also said he expected the funds to be released "momentarily."

Both admitted, however, they had not received their allotment for this quarter, although April is half gone.

The hitch in the flow of federal funds to Georgia actually has been developing since adjournment of the last legislature, which passed several laws that were not well-received by the Social Security Board.

Bremen Physician Confesses Pension Forgery, Given 2 Years

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. CARROLLTON, Ga., April 14. Dr. Claude C. Brooks, elderly Bremen physician, today pleaded guilty to three counts on an indictment charging the forgery of Confederate pension checks made payable to a woman he admitted was dead, and was sentenced to two to five years in each count, the terms to run concurrently.

Superior Court Judge Lee B. Wyatt, refused the defendant's request to be allowed liberty to make restitution of the $90 involved in the three $30 checks which bore his signature, the first of the series of payments naming Mrs. Mary M. Terrell, reputedly his mother-in-law, as beneficiary and bearing the dates of Decem-

Policy of U. S. Same Despite Pact, Hull Says

Russian-Japanese Agreement No Surprise, Secretary Declares.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—American policy in both Europe and Asia today was declared "unchanged" by the new Russian-Japanese "neutrality" pact, which was viewed officially as merely formalizing a relationship long existing between the two Eastern powers.

Secretary of State Hull expressed the government's attitude towards the pact in a formal statement which declared its significance "could be overestimated" and that it came as no surprise.

"The agreement," he said, "would seem to be descriptive of a situation which has in effect existed between the two countries for some time past."

"It therefore comes as no surprise, although there has existed doubt whether the two governments would or would not agree to say it in writing."

Aid Plans Unaffected.

As to its effect on the United States, Secretary Hull declared bluntly:

"The policy of this government, of course, remains unchanged." This meant that the pact would have no effect on the government's aid to Britain program or on the attitude it has taken in recent months toward the Far East.

Hull's statement was carefully prepared after consultation among the highest State Department officials. Some significance was seen in the fact that his language had a close resemblance to the statement he issued when Japan joined Germany and Italy in the tripartite pact last September.

Confict Mutually Undesirable.

The new pact was believed to have resulted from a mutual desire in Russia and Japan to avoid conflict with each other at this unsettled stage of world affairs. In the case of Japan, the agreement appeared to offer protection in the north against a Soviet attack while the Japanese, if they chose, sought to bring the Netherlands East Indies and other territories in the South Pacific into the "Greater East Asia" sphere.

ber, 1937, and January and February of 1938.

Judge Wyatt said the physician had admitted that Mrs. Terrell was dead when the defendant received payment on the three checks in Carrollton. Each check bore Dr. Brooks' name as second endorser, under the allegedly forged signature of Mrs. Terrell.

Specific charge in the indictment, returned last week here, was "uttering forged checks."

A statement earlier attributed to Dr. Brooks said Mrs. Terrell was alive and living in New Orleans. He was remanded to the county jail here tonight.

Discovery of alleged irregularities in the pension accounts of Mrs. Terrell was made by B. E. Thrasher Jr., state auditor, late in February.

AND SO TO BED—Little Charlie Mathis, 12-year-old Blue Ridge 4-H Club member, brought his favorite Hereford steer into Atlanta yesterday for the sixth annual Cattle Show. This is Charlie's first attempt at showing. He has visited the event before, but this year bought and raised his first entry. When he left Blue Ridge he knew he wouldn't stay at any of the downtown hotels made available for the young farmers' use. He couldn't leave his steer last night, so he just curled up on a crocus sack, put his new hat at one side, and propped against his suitcase, and dreamed dreams of fat cattle, fat purses, first prizes and blue ribbons. Cutcliffe Trial Begins in Federal District Court; Four Counts of Indictment Charge Attempt To Evade $25,218 in Taxes.

Southern Medical Leader Was Widely Honored by Profession.

Dr. Stewart Ralph Roberts, 62, professor of clinical medicine in the Emory University School of Medicine and, for more than a quarter of a century, one of the south's leading physicians, died early last night at his home on Redan road.

Although he was confined to his home only a few days ago he had never fully recovered from an illness which began in 1938. He resumed work in the early part of 1939, however, and for the last two years had continued to look after his extensive practice and to teach in the medical school at Emory.

Survivors are his wife, formerly Miss Ruby Holbrook; three children, Stewart R. Roberts Jr., nine; James William Roberts, eight; and Ross Holbrook Roberts, six; two brothers, Warren R. and Charles E. Roberts, both of Macon; an aunt, Mrs. Kitty Stewart Byrd, of Guyton, Ga., and a nephew, Dr. Thomas L. Ross, of Macon.

Widely recognized as a diagnostician and a specialist in internal medicine and heart diseases, Dr. Roberts had received some of the highest honors which his profession could bestow. Among these were the presidency of the American Heart Association, of the Southern Medical Association, and of the Fulton County Medical Society. He also had served as a member of the board of regents and as vice president of the American College of Physicians.

During the first World War Dr. Roberts was active in the organization of the Emory Unit Base Hospital No. 43 and was the first chief of its medical service. Later he was transferred to Fort Jackson, Columbia, where, as lieutenant colonel, he acted as com-

Bishop Moore, Dr. Truitt Launch Revival; Civic Groups Meet Today.

The heavy artillery of the Baptist church was pulled into position last night, ready for an attack to be launched today in the evangelistic campaign to win souls back to churches as part of a two-week city-wide revival sponsored by all the Protestant denominations of Atlanta.

When Dr. George W. Truitt, pastor of the First Baptist church of Dallas, Texas, speaks to more than 600 members of the combined civic clubs of Atlanta at Following testimony by the witness who was formerly engaged in the lottery racket, Homer McClatchey, chief of the income tax division of the office of the internal revenue collector, identified the returns filed by Cutcliffe during the four years in question.

E. E. Andrews, special prosecutor for Solicitor General John A. Boykin's office during the sensational "bug" probe of 1937, also was a brief witness for the government. He identified an affidavit executed by Cutcliffe, which he said was a confession of Cutcliffe's lottery operations for the year preceding September, 1937.

According to the government, Cutcliffe, in 1934, had a taxable net income of $36,967, on which $5,264 was due as tax, and he filed a return on $20,000, paid $1,633 on this amount, leaving an alleged balance due of $3,631.

In 1935, the government charges, Cutcliffe had a taxable net income of $49,548, on which $8,525 was due as tax, and he filed a return on $18,153, paid $1,258 on this amount, leaving an alleged balance due of $7,265.

In 1936, the government charges, Cutcliffe's taxable net income was $54,849, on which tax was due of $10,405. The government claims he filed a return on $17,589, paid tax of $1,250, leaving an alleged balance due of $9,154.

For the calendar year 1937, the government further charged, Cutcliffe's taxable net income was $36,025, with $5,304 taxes due. The government claims Cutcliffe filed a return on $5,000, paid a tax of $132, leaving an alleged balance due of $5,172.

English Repel Heavy Nazi Tank Assault as Skirmishing Spreads

Encircled Defenders of Libyan Port Inflict Severe Losses on Hitler's Motor Units.

LONDON, April 15.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Thousands of British Imperial troops are being rushed from the Italian East African front to Egypt in an effort to stem the German onrush toward the Suez canal, it was understood here today.

Encircled British defenders of the Libyan Port of Tobruk beat off heavy German tank assaults yesterday and inflicted "severe losses" on the Nazis, official sources in Cairo announced.

Meanwhile along the Greek front British Imperial forces had fallen back to new positions along the northern Grecian battle line. German sources charged that the British expeditionary force was in flight from Greece, but British officials refused to comment, countering with the announcement that "strong reinforcements are now moving up to the front lines in Greece."

Fierce War Flares in Egypt British Change Line in Greece

CAIRO, April 14.—(UP)—Encircled British defenders of the Libyan port of Tobruk, 80 miles behind the spearhead of an Italo-German desert offensive which has swept into Egyptian territory, today beat off a heavy German tank assault and inflicted "severe losses" on the Nazis, it was stated officially.

Bloody fighting raged at the same time around Salum, just inside the Egyptian frontier, where Britain's Army of the Nile is battling desperately to stem the lightning Axis drive toward the Suez canal.

"The situation has been completely restored" at Tobruk after the shattering of the German tank attack, an official communique said.

A fierce tank battle appeared to have been fought before the outer defenses of Tobruk, the Germans first succeeding in driving 20 tanks through a breach in the British lines at one point and then being driven off in a counterattack of British tanks, all smaller and less powerful.

The British commander-in-chief, General Sir Archibald Wavell, has ordered his Army of the Nile to fall back upon Marsa Matruh and abandon Sidi Barrani to Axis armored forces, an Ankara radio report said.

By The Associated Press. Britain's imperial forces have fallen back to new positions along the northern Grecian battle line, the war office acknowledged last night, and the Nazis alleged that the British expeditionary force was in flight from Greece.

Informed British sources refused to comment on German press claims that the British expeditionary force was being withdrawn from Greece.

Soldiers were embarking, the official German news agency DNB claimed, not only at numerous harbors, but along the shores of the open sea. British troop transports aggregating 30,000 tons were said by this same source to have been sunk by dive bombers in the Athenian harbor of Piraeus, and other transports and supply ships totaling 80,000 additional tons were claimed to have been damaged.

The British made no immediate official answer to this—they had warned the Greeks against German propaganda designed to split the Allies—but the British radio announced that "new contingents" of empire forces were understood to have arrived in Greece.

Without specific mention of the German agency's report of an evacuation, the London radio subsequently stated that "strong British reinforcements are now moving Nazi Successes Not To Determine Outcome of War.

We are a very mercurial country. A fortnight ago we were in the dumps because the Yugoslavs had signed a pact with Germany. Then, a few days later, we were elated out of all proportion because the Yugoslavs had reversed the pact. Then the Germans struck, with their characteristic energy in an all-out blitzkrieg, and drove right through to Greece, and everywhere one saw long faces.

With Yugoslavia surrounded on every frontier and ill-prepared for resistance, it was obvious that the Germans would plough through her. The best expectations might have reckoned in terms of weeks; it happened in days. It's a psychological reversal, but it will not determine the outcome of this war.

will finish with Eritrea and Abyssinia, and begin a counteroffensive in Libya.

Both Expected. But it will be silly to go into a mental tanglepin if Greece goes, as it probably will, and pretty soon. It will not be the end of the war if Libya goes to the Germans, and if Egypt goes. I rather expect both things to happen.

In fact, we are going to see dreadful events in the next weeks and months, and we may see the loss of the whole Mediterranean.

The importance of the Yugoslav coup d'état, however, and the immediate German aggression, is much larger than the Balkans. It brought the war into an area of vital concern to Russia. The Russians began cooling off on the pact with the Nazis at the time of the Doctors Urged To Apply for Commissions

Several Thousand Vacancies in Medical Corps Reserve.

Draft registrants who are qualified physicians and surgeons yesterday were urged in a notice from national selective service headquarters to apply for commissions in the Medical Corps Reserve instead of being inducted as selectees for military training.

"Several thousand vacancies in the Medical Corps Reserve were announced recently by the War Department," the notice to local boards said. "It is particularly desirable to avoid inducting men who can qualify for such commissions and be made available for immediate active duty."

It was suggested that local boards get in touch with their registrants who are licensed physicians and surgeons and urge the men to seek commissions.

"As medical officers they will serve to better advantage both to the Army and to themselves," it was pointed out.

12:30 o'clock at the Ansley hotel he will represent the best in force and generalship that the Baptist leaders will bring forward, while yesterday the Methodist churches fired into the ranks of what is called a passive attitude toward religion the oratorical and evangelistic efforts of Bishop Arthur J. Moore.

Throughout the next two weeks both these leaders of the movement and many lesser lights in evangelical church work will put behind the revival the full force of the combined churches of Atlanta along with the Christian Council, an organization of ministers with the purpose of inspiring renewed interest of the need of Christian principles in a world of chaos.

Clubs Sponsor Meeting. Morning, noon and night services are to be held throughout the city. Some of these sessions will be in churches, others in the open air at Five Points and at factories, and still others in small groups in the homes; but all are intended to stimulate a resurgence in church and religious activities.

The noon meeting today at the Ansley hotel, at which Dr. Truitt is to be the speaker, has been arranged under the combined auspices of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Optimist, Exchange, Civitan and Lions Clubs. Members of these civic clubs are leaders in the community and Dr. Truitt intends to convey to them the necessity of carrying the message not only into the homes but into the factories, mills, army camps and office buildings of the city.

J. C. Wardlaw, president of the Kiwanis Club, will preside and George Winslow, president of the Rotary Club, will introduce Dr. Truitt. John Hoffman, member of the Optimist Club, will conduct the singing and Dr. Ellis Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, will offer the prayer. Pastors of other denominations in the vicinity of the First Baptist church, where Dr. Truitt will hold meetings, have been invited to attend the luncheon.

Dr. Truitt will begin his revivals at noon tomorrow and will speak each day except Tuesday at the same hour through April 26. At noon today Dr. Roland G. Leavell, superintendent of evangelism of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist convention, will speak at the church.

25,000 To Attend. Approximately 25,000 students are expected to attend the mass meeting at 1:30 o'clock next Tuesday at Grant field to hear Dr. Truitt. Committee of arrangements for the meeting includes Dr. M. L. Brittain, of Georgia Tech; Dr. Willis Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools; Jere Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools; Dr. J. R. McCain, of Agnes Scott; Dr. George M. Sparks, of the Georgia Evening school; Dr. Harvey W. Cox, of Emory University; Dr. J. McD. Richards, of Columbia Seminary, and Dr. Fuller. A crowd of 38,000 is expected to attend the evangelistic meeting, with a section of the stadium reserved for adults.

Dr. Carey Barker, of Lynchburg, Va., who is holding evangelistic meetings at the Baptist Tabernacle, will fill Dr. Truitt's pulpit at the First Baptist church for the noon services next Tuesday.

Churches Gain 800 Members In City Revival

Easter Services Bring Accessions; Leaders Are Satisfied.

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT. Incomplete reports from Methodist pastors in the Atlanta area who are participating in the Greater Atlanta simultaneous revival campaign are that more than 800 persons were received as new members on Easter Sunday. Baptism of 104 infants was reported.

Reports from all churches have not been received. It is stated that, when all reports are made, the number will be augmented in both instances. Several pastors have been in revival services since annual conference, whose accessions are yet to be listed.

Formal launching of the simultaneous effort was made Easter Sunday in Atlanta Methodist churches, and will be continued all this week and next. Numerous visiting ministers from other cities are helping pastors who are not doing their own preaching.

Dr. E. G. Mackay, district superintendent of the East Atlanta area, and Dr. Wallace Rogers, district superintendent of the West Atlanta area, stated their satisfaction with progress made by their churches and districts the first two days of the campaign.

Downtown meetings are to be held daily at noon. At the First Methodist church Bishop Arthur J. Moore is to preach each day at noon. His sermon theme for today will be "The Power of God's Redeeming Love."

Dr. Harry Denman, of Birmingham, general secretary of Methodist evangelism, is preaching each morning at 7:45 at Wesley Memorial church, and at 7:45 each evening at the same church. Today at 12:15 he is speaking at the Southern Traffic Bureau, eleventh floor the 101 Marietta Building. At 11:45 tomorrow he is to speak at the Southern Railway shops on Windsor street.

The main floor auditorium of First Methodist church was filled with worshipers yesterday at the noon meeting and heard Bishop Moore discuss the theme, "Can We Sincerely Believe in Life After Death?" Congregational singing led by Harry P. Armstrong, with Mrs. Frances E. Spain at the pipe organ, featured the first noon meeting.

Answer Ever Sought. St. Paul's well-known statement, "Now is Christ risen from the dead and becomes the first-fruits of them that slept," was the scriptural text discussed by the bishop. He said mankind ever beheld, there vanity in religious preaching, emptiness of faith, falsehood of testimony, failure of redemption and collapse of all hope.

Bishop Moore emphasized that Christ is now risen and that the central message of the Christian gospel is embodied in that fact. He deplored the former practice of exalting death and said death is not the sunset or going-out of life, but the sunrise and the coming-in of a better and larger life.

Bishop Moore moved the great audience to tears as he declared God's pledge for eternal life to those linked with Christ and showed that Christ's resurrection is the pledge of the individual believer's.

The bishop urged the pastors present to launch their revivals on the high plane of faith and fellowship with a risen Redeemer, who has conquered death and whose resurrection is a pattern of that which is to come to believers.

Luncheon Daily Feature. After the service 54 ministers present attended a luncheon at the Imperial hotel. The luncheon is to be a daily feature of the downtown meetings; it was stated.

During this week the next visiting ministers will be heard at the following churches: The Rev. William Harry Moore, of Taft, Texas, at Park Street church; the Rev. J. S. Thrallkill, of Dalton, at Stewart Avenue church; Dr. William B. Selah, of Memphis, at Druid Hills church; the Rev. C. L. Allen, at Sylvan Hills church; the Rev. E. A. Edmondson, of Atlanta, at Underwood Memorial church; the Rev. J. W. Vest, of Newton, at St. John church; the Rev. L. W. Collins, of Gainesville, at Warner Candler Memorial church; the Rev. W. C. Budd, of Warrenton, at Grace church; the Rev. A. E. Barton, of Butte, at St. Paul church; the Rev. Love B. Harrell, of Trion, at Inman Park church; the Rev. E. D. Rudisill, of Decatur, at Peachtree Road church; the Rev. G. C. Powell, of Florida, at Sardis church; the Rev. S. H. Dixon, of Conway, at Pottsville Memorial church; the Rev. Ira E. Williams, of Hattiesburg, Miss., at East Lake church; the Rev. W. E. Kelly, of Dublin, at the East Point church; at St. Mark church Dr. Harry Denman will preach each morning at 10:30 o'clock Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and Bishop Moore will preach Monday and Tuesday evening.

The special city-wide simultaneous revival campaign is being promoted by the Atlanta Christian Council, and will continue through April 27. During the last three weeks preliminary work for the campaign has been in progress, until now nearly 200 churches are launched upon the revival effort with all clerical and lay forces organized to make an attempt to win to faith Atlanta's 125,000 non-church members.

GREEK WAR RELIEF. AUGUSTA, Ga., April 14.—(P) Augustans have contributed $8,023 to the Greek War Relief, Treasurer Theo Heos announced.

Methodist church, Dr. Harry Denman, who is guest pastor at the Wesley Memorial Methodist church, will also conduct noon shop and office meetings in the downtown area, on Plaza way, off Whitehall street.

Guest speakers will appear at the various churches each evening through April 27, with thousands of Atlantans attending the revivals.

Mrs. Selvage To Head Local Women Voters

Succeeds Mrs. J. D. Thomas; Will Attend National Council.

Mrs. James J. Selvage, of 3136 Habersham road, N. W., has been named president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Selvage succeeds Mrs. J. D. Thomas, who is leaving Atlanta to make her home in Eustis, Fla.

The new president is long experienced in league work, having been active in the Milwaukee league before coming to Atlanta six years ago. She has been a member of the board of the Atlanta league for a number of years, and at the time of her elevation to the presidency was chairman of the board.

To Attend Council. As the new president of the Atlanta league and as delegate from the state league she will attend the national council of Women Voters to be held in Washington in early May.

Mrs. Thomas, the retiring president, was one of the most forceful personalities in Atlanta club work.

In addition to serving two terms as president, she was for a number of years a director, the editor of Facts, the league publication, and chairman of important committees.

As chairman of the committee on government and operations she devoted a great deal of time to her job, attending meetings of city council and of the county commissioners, keeping records of business, and reporting back to the league how measures in which they found merit were supported.

Was Understanding. She was at the same time, understanding of, and sympathetic with the problems confronting the public officials, and at the same time based on her reports took cognizance not only of what was the ideal thing, but what would practically be done.

"I learned in these associations," she said, "to have the highest respect and the greatest friendliness for the majority of our public officials."

Mrs. Thomas is moving to Florida with her husband, who is retiring after more than 30 years with the Brunswick-Balke Company. In recent years he was their southeastern manager.

Watson To Talk On Schools of Art

Renaissance and surrealism art will be compared by the internationally known art critic and commentator, Dudley Crafts Watson, at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night at Presser Hall, Agnes Scott College, in the last of the series of public lectures of the year.

Mr. Watson, the official lecturer of the Chicago Institute of Art and the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, annually addresses 160,000 persons and has crossed the Atlantic 38 times to study the galleries and art schools of Europe. He is also a well-known water colorist.

One of the features of the lecture will be special records, typical of the music of each period, which will be played during the lecture. The Agnes Scott College Lecture Association, Miss Emma May Lane, faculty chairman, and Miss Betty Wait, of Maxwell Field, Ala., student chairman, is in charge of the arrangements.

School Patrol To Leave May 7

Atlanta's school boy safety patrol, comprising more than 500 members who guard dangerous school crossings at busy hours, will leave on a special train May 7 for a four-day trip to Washington, D. C.

All expenses will be paid for 50 of the patrolmen who are leaders in their classwork as well as in their safety duties. This bonus for a year's good work will come from private contributions made to Captain G. Neal Ellis, head of the traffic department.

Each year the patrol takes a scenic trip, along with members of the police department as guardians. The cost is about $25 per patrolman for all expenses.

W. B. Jones Named Legion Post Head

W. B. Jones has been elected commander of the newly formed East Atlanta Post, American Legion, composed of 23 charter members all of whom belong to the Men's Bible Class of the Moreland Baptist church.

Other officers are: C. L. Edwards, senior vice commander; H. Drane, junior vice commander; H. C. Beator, adjutant; E. M. Collins, finance officer; A. Reynolds, historian; M. P. Pratt, chaplain, and I. E. McElreath, sergeant at arms.

20 More Italians Held On Sabotage Charges

BALTIMORE, April 14.—(P)—Twenty additional Italian seamen were held under $10,000 bail each for a hearing April 28 on charges of sabotage by U. S. Commissioner James K. Cullen today.

The men were from the steamship Euro, seized here two weeks ago. Eighteen crewmen from the Pietro Campella were held under similar bail Saturday. Pleas of innocent were made by the 20 today upon arraignment.

Atlanta Is Leader In Fire Waste Test

Atlanta led all cities in its population class of 250,000 to 500,000 persons in the 1940 Inter-Chamber Fire Waste Contest of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The announcement was made yesterday through Frank Carter, president of the local chamber. The purpose of the contest was to reduce waste resulting from fire losses.

Berlin Court Is Created To Hear Cargo Cases

BERLIN, April 14.—(P)—The fact that Germany considers the Mediterranean a rich hunting ground for war-contraband cargos was indicated by a decree published in the official Law Gazette today establishing a second court seated at Berlin to deal with prize cases in this sea region.

The first German prize court is seated at Hamburg and deals with cases from northern waters, including the Atlantic.

James Roosevelt, 33, Wedded To Nurse in Simple Ceremony

Eldest Son of President and Romelle Schneider, 25, Take Vows as First Lady Looks on at Home of Film Star.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 14.—(AP)—James Roosevelt, 33, whose career swung from the nation's capital to the film capital, took as his second wife today a brown-eyed nurse he met while undergoing an operation at a Rochester (Minn.) hospital.

The eldest son of the President was married to Romelle Theresa Schneider, 25, in a simple, civil ceremony which was attended by a small group of guests, including his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who came from the east by plane.

Municipal Judge Arthur Guerin read the service at the home of George P. Converse and Mrs. Converse, the former actress Anita Stewart.

Roosevelt and his bride exchanged vows before an altar banked with Easter lilies. She wore a beige, semi-tailored suit and carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley. Just before the ceremony Roosevelt gave her a diamond and ruby bracelet.

Among the 25 guests were Jimmy's mother, his sister, Mrs. Anna Boettiger and her husband, John Boettiger, Seattle publisher; the bride's mother, Mrs. Agnes Schneider; her brother, George, Notre Dame University student, and her two sisters, Mrs. L. F. Tubbs and Phyllis Schneider, Jimmy's secretary.

Roosevelt was divorced last year by the former Betsey Cushing, of Boston.

Following a luncheon, the couple left on a brief honeymoon at an undisclosed spot. A day train to the Marine Corps Camp in San Diego, Roosevelt must return to duty Thursday.

W. H. Smith, Civic Leader, Is Dead

W. H. Smith, 89, of 340 Arizona avenue, N. E., formerly a prominent civic leader of Alabama and Atlanta, died yesterday at a local hospital. He was the father of Mrs. George W. Harris, wife of the College Park mayor.

Also surviving are three sons, Natus M., William S. and Joseph D. Smith; six other daughters, Mrs. Mina Stewart, Mrs. W. R. Biddle, Mrs. Will N. Gray, Mrs. George Foster, Mrs. Alex Vaughn and Mrs. D. F. Black; 36 grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Trinity Chapel. The Rev. Russell Johnson and the Rev. W. S. Robinson will officiate. Burial will be in Mountain View cemetery.

HEALTH

How to Get It and How to Keep It

If the reading of this article teaches you only this one lesson about your own body it may be worth more than millions of dollars to you; for of what use is money without health, or after you are dead?

The lesson is this: "Keep your system pure and you may have health and strength to gain and enjoy happiness, success and length of years." But you may ask:—

How Can I Keep My System Pure?

That is not a hard question to answer, for Science plainly teaches that your liver, which is larger than all of the other glands of the body combined, has the special work of purifying your blood, and thereby your entire system and of keeping it pure.

How Does the Liver Purify? Physicians tell us that the liver destroys, or renders harmless, poisons such as uric acid and other toxic waste matter that is normally formed in the tissues, and also prevents the formation of poisons in the blood by manufacturing greenish-yellow, bitter fluid called bile, which, between meals, is stored up in the gall-bladder, but after each meal is poured out into the intestines. The bile is purgative and indirectly antiseptic or prophylactic. In health it is your bile that makes your bowels act regularly and freely every day.

It is Nature's Purgative. It is your bile that keeps your bowels pure, clean and free from excessive fermentation (gas) and putrefaction. Remember that putrefactive germs do not thrive where there is fresh bile and that the gall-bladder is the pump that can therefore be no fermentation to cause gas, nor putrefaction to produce poisons, or toxins. Also, as bile is Nature's purgative, there can be no constipation if the bile is flowing naturally and freely from the gall-bladder into the bowels after each meal.

But when the bile becomes stagnant your bowels stop acting regularly and the contents become a breeding bed for the germs of fermentation (gas) and putrefaction. These poisons, (called toxins), are gradually absorbed into your blood and if the quantity be more than the liver can destroy, may circulate all over your body, poisoning, irritating or inflaming your brain and nerves, your muscles and joints, your heart, skin, kidneys, and every vital organ of your body. Your doctor calls this "intestinal toxemia," and tells you that your system is "toxic," or, if mild, "bilious."

Functions of Gall-Bladder In 24 hours your liver manufactures about 3 to 4 teaspoonfuls of bile, which flows through millions of minute canals, or ducts, uniting to make a large tube which empties into the gall-bladder, as creeks and rivulets unite to form a river that flows into a lake. Your gall-bladder is a hollow muscle that serves the double purpose of a reservoir and a pump. Its functions are similar to those of the urinary bladder. About three hours after eating, when the food is passing from the stomach into the intestines, your gall-bladder should begin its contractions, thus pumping the bile into the small intestine where it is mixed with your food. Bile is also an essential digestive fluid, aiding in the digestion and absorption of fats and oils. Its absence inevitably

Delta Opens New Service To Cincinnati

Aviation, Civic Leaders Are Passengers on Inaugural Flight.

Delta Air Lines this morning opens a new air service to Cincinnati, first Delta expansion out of the deep south.

Billing its new flight as "The Scenic Route to the East," Delta ships will make the trip in two hours and 40 minutes, with stops at Knoxville, and later, when airport facilities are completed, at Lexington, Ky.

The schedule calls for two flights daily, the first plane leaving Atlanta at 8 a. m. and reaching the Ohio city at 10:40. The return flight departs at 11:20 and reaches Atlanta at 2 p. m. The second flight leaves Atlanta at 2:50 p. m., arrives in Cincinnati at 5:35, and returns at 8:15, arriving here at 11 p. m.

One of the most beautiful air routes out of Atlanta from the scenic standpoint, the new flight soars over the Georgia mountains across Tate Mountain estates, and continues via Lake Toccoa, Hiawassee lake, across the big Smokies and Norris lake at Lexington and the Blue Grass country, and thence over another mountain chain to Cincinnati.

Inaugural Flight. Officials of the terminal cities, the cities in route, air lines men and newspapermen made the inaugural flight over the new route yesterday, ending the trip with a dedication dinner at the Piedmont Driving Club last night, where Winship Nunnally, chairman of the aviation committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, presided.

For business, for pleasure travel, and as an important factor in national defense, Delta's new line is an asset to the cities it serves, Nunnally said.

Other speakers at the dinner last night were Mayor James G. Stewart, of Cincinnati; Frank Carter, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Gilmore Nunn, chairman of the aviation board of Lexington, Ky., and C. E. Faulk, white-haired president of Delta, who predicted the opening of more new routes in 1941.

Making the first flight out of Atlanta yesterday were Mr. Faulk, C. E. Woolman, vice president and general manager of Delta; Leigh C. Parker, vice president in charge of traffic; G. V. Trippett, and Russell Ream, CAA inspectors; Nate S. Noble, managing editor of The Atlanta Constitution; Wright Bryan, managing editor of the Atlanta Journal; Cecil Hester, chairman of the aviation committee of city council; former Mayor William B. Hartsfield, Stanley Webber, Delta's first passenger when the line opened in 1928; Oscar Bergstrom, assistant general traffic manager, and J. F. Nycum, chief engineer.

Flight Personnel. Flight personnel included Captain C. H. Dolson, pilot; Captain F. J. Schwaemmle, first officer, and Miss Birdie Perkins, R. N., stewardess.

At Knoxville the ship picked up John C. Cox, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Fred A. Roberts, manager of the chamber; and Glenn McNeil, editor of the Knoxville News Sentinel. Luncheon honoring the air line officers was served at Cincinnati. Ohioans making the return flight to Atlanta were Morris Edwards, manager of the Chamber of Commerce; Guy Randolph, vice chairman of the chamber aviation committee; William Minnehan, chief corporation counsel for Delta; Mayor Stewart, Joe Garretson of the Enquirer, Phil Sauer of the Times Star, Charles Rentrop of the Post, and Haden Kirkpatrick of the Lexington Herald Ledger.

Shortage Reported In Farm Labor

ATHENS, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Development of a farm labor shortage in Georgia was reported today by the Georgia Crop Reporting Service.

The service said that for every 100 farm jobs available in the state there were 76 workers and that the current labor supply was the lowest on its records, which date back to 1926.

Farm wage rates were said to be slightly more than five percent above those in January and monthly wages were reported at the highest level since 1931.

The service said the statewide farm labor shortage was the result of increased industrial activity, defense building and the draft. The shortage was reported as particularly noticeable around Army camps, industrial centers, and the sawmill areas of the central section of the state.

Agricultural officials said that crop planning would be affected to some extent by the labor shortage and might cause many farmers to introduce additional machinery if funds could be obtained.

Two Youths Sentenced For Firing Into Homes

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 14.—(UP)—Edward J. Heitzberg Jr. and James V. Killbrew, both 17, today were sentenced to serve a year each in the Tennessee Training and Agricultural School for shooting a small-caliber rifle into more than 12 homes in Belle Meade, Nashville's best residential section.

The boys are members of prominent Nashville families. District Attorney General J. Carlton Loser said they "were trying to frighten persons or shoot out light bulbs."

Martha (Oh Boy), Lang Plan Early Marriage

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—(AP) Martha Raye, of the stage and movies, arrived by train today with Neal Lang, Florida hotel man.

She said they plan to marry "some time fairly soon, when my divorce from Dave Rose becomes final."

She was wed to Buddy Westmore, film makeup man, before her marriage to Rose, music composer whom she divorced last May 17.

SWELL TRIP — SWELL HOSTESSES — A SWELL TIME. Those are the sentiments of his honor, Mayor James G. Stewart, of Cincinnati, judging by the expression on his face, as the Delta Airlines celebrated opening of their Atlanta-Cincinnati service with a dinner last night at the Piedmont Driving Club. The mayor was completely surrounded by a bevy of beautiful Delta hostesses at the dinner, but his honor wasn't eating when this picture was made. But who wants to eat? Those with the mayor, reading from left to right, Sybil Peacock, Mayor Stewart, Martha Ann Morris and Kathleen Mills. Back row, C. E. Faulk, Delta's president, with another hostess, Catherine Turner. Regular passenger service on the line begins today.

Textile Groups 5 Cents Apart On Pay Appeal

Committee To Begin Deliberations on Recommendation Today.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP) Manufacturers appealed to an industry committee today to hold any increase in the minimum hourly wage for cotton textile workers to 35 cents, but labor demanded 40 cents.

Their conflicting demands presaged a bitter dispute among members of the 21-man committee before an agreement could be reached on increasing the prevailing 32 1-2 cent an hour minimum. The committee was expected to conclude hearings tomorrow and start deliberation on a recommendation to be given to Brigadier General Philip B. Fleming, wage-hour administrator.

Claudius T. Murchison, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, representing both northern and southern manufacturers, estimated an increase to 40 cents would add $70,000,000 to manufacturers' pay rolls as compared with 1940.

After forecasting "abrupt and drastic increases" in finished goods, if a 40-cent minimum were approved, Murchison added: "Wage standardization at sharply higher levels arrived at by abrupt changes is a policy of industrial centralization which favors the larger and more populous centers against the industrial development of the smaller and more isolated communities."

Solomon Barkin, research director for the CIO's Textile Workers' Union of America, contended that recent general wage increases in the north and wage boosts in some southern mills resulted in a large portion of the industry adopting a 40-cent minimum.

He contended the industry, reporting higher profits than in recent years and more volume than in April, 1937, when production hit its most recent peak, was capable of absorbing much of the increased labor cost.

He estimated that the existing wage differential of 10.7 cents an hour between north and south would be reduced to 6.5 cents by adoption of the 40-cent minimum.

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in the Want Ad section of The Constitution.

Serbs Hurling Selves at Lines, Fascists Say

Italians Said To Have Penetrated Further Into Yugoslavia.

ROME, April 14.—(AP)—Masses of shouting Serbs are hurling themselves "repeatedly and uselessly" by land and speedboat against Italian defenses at the northern Albanian lakeshore town of Scutari, Fascist dispatches from the Balkan front said tonight.

Accounts of the violent fighting there were coupled with reports of further Fascist penetration of Yugoslavia in the south, and advance through broken Greek lines toward Corizza (Koriza), first major Italian base captured by the Greeks in the Albanian counter-invasion last fall, and a high command announcement that the British have been thrown back across the Egyptian border on the North African front.

(A Rome broadcast heard in New York by CBS announced that Corizza, held by the Greeks since November 22, had been captured by Mussolini's ninth army.)

The Yugoslavs were declared checked or driven back by Fascist assaults everywhere along the 420-mile front.

The Greeks, according to Il Giornale D'Italia, have brought up their last three divisions of reserves to stem the Italian march

Adults Swarm on White House Lawn for Annual Egg Roll

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt looked out over thousands of people participating in the annual Easter egg rolling on the White House lawn today and said laughingly: "I'm not at all sure that the grown-ups don't enjoy this as much as the youngsters."

A majority of the egg rollers were adults. Perfect weather brought the guests out early, and it seemed there were two adults for every child among the 9,300 who came in the first two hours.

The President greeted them from the south portico of the White House, then left to toss out the first ball of the big league season at the game between Washington and New York.

The White House gate count showed 34,361 had entered the grounds, and the President told them:

"I'm very glad to welcome you here on another of these occasions which through a great number of years have made Easter Monday quite memorable."

The President said it so happened that there are three important events on Easter Monday this year: The Easter egg roll, the cherry blossom festival and the opening of the baseball season.

Just before the President spoke an elderly woman collapsed. While a Red Cross first-aid worker brought her water, a little girl ran to her crying "Grandmother." The woman was revived and the crying youngster quieted just as the President began to talk.

For 48 hours the Serbs have been moving in wave upon wave from speedboats daring across the choppy waters of the lake, which straddles the Albanian-Yugoslav border.

Italian motor torpedo boats were declared to have thwarted attempts by the Serbs to land troops from speedboats daring across the choppy waters of the lake, which straddles the Albanian-Yugoslav border.

"The enemy army, divided by the German army and forced to fall back in the face of our strong offensive movements from Piscopeia toward Tetovo and from Gafitan toward Struga after our troops made contact with the Germans, is pressing desperately toward Scutari with the aim of obtaining a propaganda success," the newspaper Il Lavoro Fascista said.

"Serbian troops operating against Scutari are numerous and are composed of divisions of the Third and Fifth Armies, reinforced from the garrison at Kotor. The attack has failed to make progress and is effectively held in check by our troops, resisting with a line of safety beyond Kopliku (on the east shore of the lake) and about 12 miles beyond Scutari."

Il Lavoro Fascista's correspondent said the Yugoslavs planned to converge three columns on Scutari.

"Two Serb divisions," he asserted, "operating in the front line suffered serious losses, but nevertheless the yelling masses throw themselves in ever larger numbers but uselessly toward our positions." Hundreds of Yugoslav prisoners were reported taken.

Dr. Roberts, 62, 'Ideal Alumnus' Of Emory, Dies

In addition to being an eminent and successful medical practitioner and teacher, Dr. Roberts was noted for his talent as a writer and speaker. He was a frequent contributor to medical journals and spoke on medicine, medical history and other subjects in many parts of the country. Several years ago he was a guest lecturer at the Harvard University School of Medicine.

The great object of Dr. Roberts' devotion, however, was his alma mater, Emory. A graduate of both the college and the medical school, he had been associated with the institution throughout his career. An article prepared for the Emory Alumnus by a classmate, Dr. Frank K. Boland, declared that "no Emory man is more entitled to the enviable sobriquet of the 'ideal alumnus' than Dr. Roberts."

Dr. Roberts was born October 2, 1878, at Oxford, Ga., within the shadow of old Emory College campus. His great-grandfather was one of the original contributors to the college and both his grandfather and his father, Rev. J. W. Roberts, were Emory graduates and trustees.

Stewart Roberts entered Emory College in 1894 and led his class through the freshman and sophomore years. Overwork decided his father to take him from college for one year, after which he entered the Southern Medical College (later the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons) from which he was graduated with the degree of doctor of medicine in 1900. With his diploma and a license to practice medicine tucked under his arm, Dr. Roberts then re-entered Emory College in the junior class where he had left off four years previously. Again he led his class and was graduated in 1902 with first honors.

Upon receiving his A. B. degree, Dr. Roberts was elected professor of biology at Emory and was given a year's leave of absence to study at the University of Chicago. There he was awarded the degrees of bachelor of science and of master of science. He returned to Emory to teach biology, zoology and physiology. Three years later he moved to Atlanta to practice medicine and to teach in the medical school which in 1915 became the School of Medicine of Emory University. Since that time he has been professor of clinical medicine at Emory.

After joining the Emory faculty, Dr. Roberts took several leaves of absence for further study at Harvard University School of Medicine and other medical centers. In 1912, he spent several months in Europe investigating pellagra and wrote a book on the subject. It was published in the same year.

Dr. Roberts was one of the foundation members of the Emory chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. He was also a member of Kappa Alpha, Omicron Delta Kappa, and Alpha Omega Alpha fraternities. In addition to serving on the staff of the Emory hospital, he was in earlier years a staff member at Grady and Georgia Baptist hospitals.

The services of Dr. Roberts to Emory extended far beyond the confines of the School of Medicine. He was at various times a trustee both of the old Emory College and of the new Emory University and, in 1925, became first president of the Atlanta Emory Alumni Association. In 1927, on the 20th anniversary of his graduation from the college, he was chosen as the university's commencement speaker. A quotation from his address, entitled "Emory's Creed," hangs on the walls of Emory alumni throughout the world.

Another widely quoted excerpt from Dr. Roberts' speeches and writings is his "Ideal of Modern Medicine," published in 1916. The closing sentences of this quotation are regarded by many as summarizing his own personal and professional philosophy:

"May I be strong with the weak, righteous with the wicked, wise with the foolish, honest with myself and kind to all men. . . . May I take injustice cheerfully, death hopefully, believe victory and defeat equally a part of the larger plan, and rise from both fresh for repeated conflicts. May I remember that I am heir to the same diseases as my patients, must meet the same death, pass with them beyond the river, and may I go with a smile."

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Glenn Memorial Methodist church. Dr. Nat G. Long and Dr. Edward G. Mackay will officiate. Burial will be in Oxford, Ga.

Girl, 8, Is Killed Near Dawsonville

GAINESVILLE, Ga., April 14.—Dorothy Thelma Barron, 8, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon in front of her home near Dawsonville when struck by a car alleged to have been driven by Edwin Burt, 28, also of Dawsonville, according to Sergeant P. B. Weeks, of the state patrol headquarters here.

The child was attempting to cross the Dawsonville-Dahlonega highway between two cars headed north and ran in front of the Burt car, Sergeant Weeks stated witnesses told him. No charges had been killed yesterday against Burt last night, the officer said.

Services were held this afternoon in the Dawsonville Baptist church, with burial in the cemetery there.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Barron; two brothers, Arnold and R. L. Barron Jr., and a sister, Miss Mary Lou Barron, all of Dawsonville, Route 3.

State Pensions Being Held Up; U. S. Delays Aid of the board at present is an amendment tacked on to the unemployment compensation act at the last assembly. It says:

"The commissioner (of labor) shall be the custodian of the fund and he shall deposit the same in the depositories of the state in such amounts as the Governor might direct, but before any such depository shall be eligible for such deposits it must post good and solvent bond, payable to the Governor and his successors in office, to be approved by him and in such sums as he might require."

Under this amendment State Treasurer Hamilton would be prohibited from handling the funds, and it would permit the Governor and commissioner of labor to distribute the money to the banks of their choice. It is charged that this is an effort to take away some of Hamilton's political power.

Huie and Hamilton also were engaged in an exchange of stern communications over $28,742.48 in the clearing account of the unemployment benefit fund.

Although there was a temporary truce in the controversy between the two over custody of funds collected from employers as federal pay roll taxes, Hamilton wrote the labor commissioner:

"I notice that you are not depositing the collections to my credit in the clearing account. I request that you remit these items to me for deposit in the clearing account as handled heretofore."

"It is my desire to co-operate in every way possible in the operation of your department and mine under whatever may be existing law. If you care to furnish me with an official ruling from the attorney general of Georgia and the general counsel of the Social Security Board in Washington, I will be glad to study these rulings and give them every consideration."

Police Continue Quest

For Slayer of Matron

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 14.—(AP)—Police ran down scores of futile clues today in their search for a Negro ex-convict indicted for clubbing to death a comely Chattanooga matron in the living room of her home.

Numerous calls were received at the station reporting the Negro had been seen during the day in the fashionable neighborhood where Mrs. Jane Cowler Cathey, 37, was beaten to death last Saturday with a baseball bat. Police intensified their search in the area but without result.

$6,400,000 for Telephone Expansion

Nearly $6,400,000 will be spent this year in Georgia by Southern Bell for constructing, reconstructing and adapting telephone facilities to meet governmental and other telephone needs of the state.

More than 600,000 men in the nation's armed forces will be trained in the South. Of these more than 90,000 will be located in Georgia.

To care for these men there will be 71 military camps and establishments in the South.

Necessary switchboards, numerous other equipment, and many miles of telephone wire have already been installed. Additional equipment is being provided as required.

An adequate communication service is vital to the defense program and telephone forces have been engaged for months in planning and installing the service to meet the maximum needs of government and industry for both local and long distance telephone service.

Telephone men and women are now better equipped and trained than ever before to do the big job ahead of them. They go forward confident of their ability to maintain the service at its present high standard of efficiency and dependability.

U. S. To Publish Instructions For Building Bomb Shelters

War Department Pamphlet Will Be Distributed Next Week, But Not as Signal To Start Work on Structures Immediately.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(P)—Instructions for building air-raid shelters and protecting civilians against air attacks will be published next week by the War Department.

Announcing today that distribution of a pamphlet entitled "Civil Defense Protection Construction" would begin April 23, the department said its appearance should not be taken as a signal to start work immediately on such structures. It is being published, it said, in order to make the information available to responsible civilian officials and civilian engineers so that they may consider not only the designs involved but procedures to be followed in their respective localities "should the situation change."

The pamphlet, first of a series, will include not only designs for air-raid shelters of various sizes, but will describe methods for protecting large buildings, public utilities and industrial plants.

Nazis Maintain Air Competition

NEW YORK, April 14.—(P)—Germany is maintaining stiff "commercial" air competition in South America despite war, Pan American Airways reported today in an open letter addressed simply "Dear senior."

The Germans, it said, arranged to have "tremendous stocks of spare parts at hand, particularly in Brazil," before the war broke out and the British took over Bathurst, the Germans' "only West African base" and their "trans-Atlantic link."

Due to this, it added, the Condor syndicate, Lufthansa's main South American subsidiary, has "never had to miss a schedule for lack of replacement equipment."

up to the front lines in Greece." The London press warned the people away from optimism and told them to expect hard days in Africa.

The London Daily Mail remarked that the British in both north Africa and Greece faced "a colossal task," and added: "It is no service to them to pretend otherwise."

Germans Silent.

Germany's lines in Africa, it went on, had been described as "extended and vulnerable," but "the same thing was heard when they thrust deeply into France."

The Germans themselves were naturally silent about their African plans, except to say that their forces were still heading eastward. But it was stated in Berlin that the Suez, which by air line lies some 500 miles beyond Salum, was within the range of military possibility.

The Nazis issued by radio a claim that the same British commission "which organized the glorious retreat from Dunkirk" had arrived in Athens.

A Greek radio commentator, attributing his information to the press ministry, reported that in Yugoslavia it appeared that "the great bulk of the Yugoslav army remains intact and has retired to the mountainous areas where it is easy to maintain the defense and whence it could constitute a permanent threat to the invader's flank."

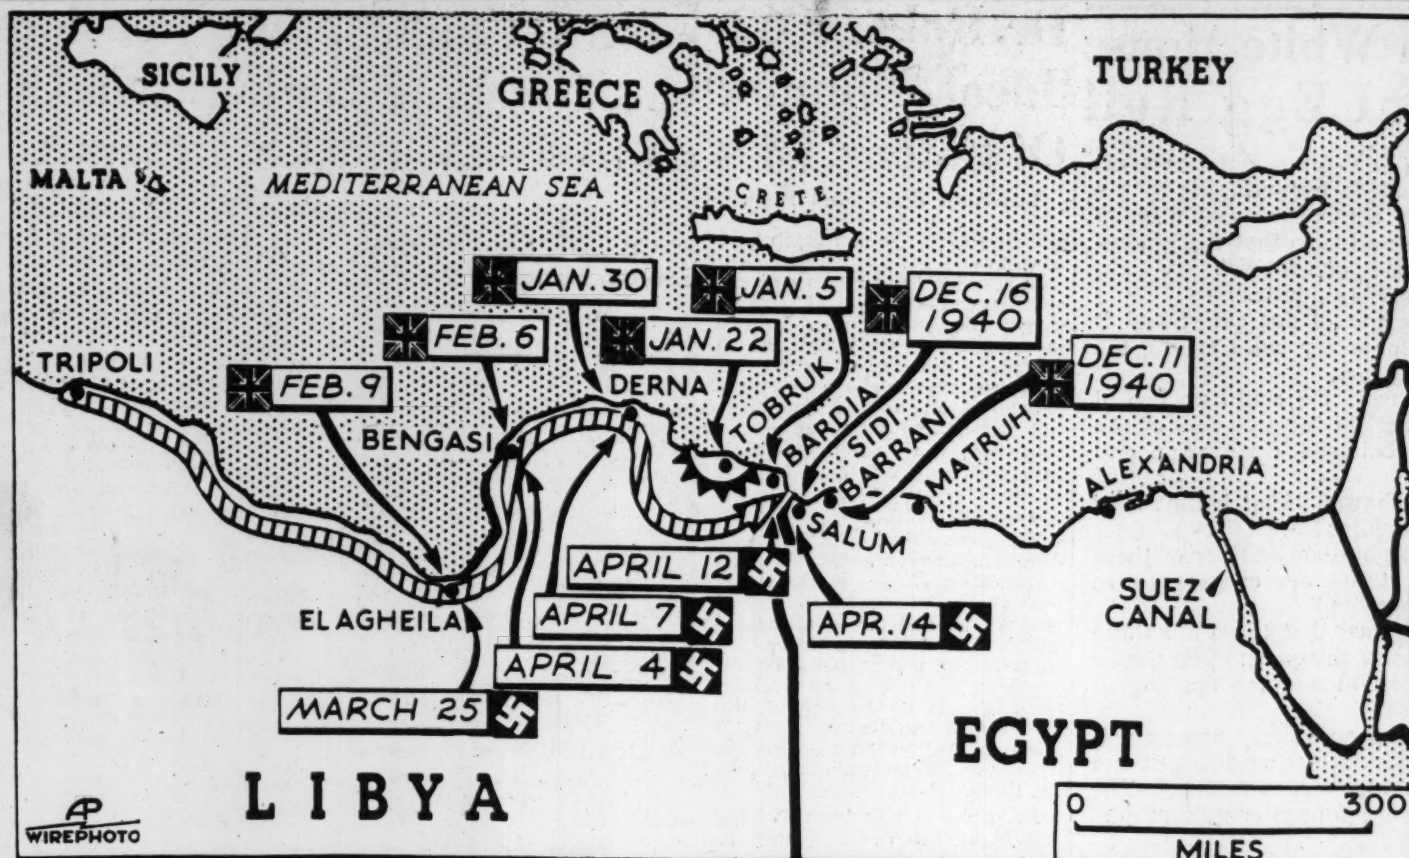

(Yugoslav Serbian troops in two attacks south of Belgrade are threatening to cut the Belgrade-to-Salonika railroad, chief line of supply for German assaults on the eastern wing of the British-Greek front, an Ankara radio report said early today, according to the United Press.)

(The Serbs were said by the CBS correspondent in Ankara to have launched "successful" pincer attacks in the Topolo area about 38 miles south of Belgrade and at Barberin in the Morava valley.)

Nazis Retreat.

Yugoslav troops were declared to have opened a spirited counter-offensive on either bank of the Morava river, forcing the Nazis to retreat.

Southwest of Nis, it was stated, the Yugoslavs recaptured the town of Prokuplje. It was believed here that the main Yugoslav force was concentrated to effect a push toward the south with the object of when British troops took towns in westward drive. Swastika flags show dates Axis armies re-entered towns. The Germans based at Tripoli met the British first at El Agheila. It appeared that the British would fall back to Matruh, 100 miles inside Egypt.

Egypt Is Scene Of Fierce War In Axis Drive

ed by the CBS correspondent in Ankara on the basis of information from British quarters, means surrender of a 100-mile stretch of Egyptian territory east of the Libyan frontier.

The British war office, before revealing the "withdrawal to new positions," reported that the British forces had defeated with heavy enemy casualties an attack by a crack division of German armored troops composed of the black-garbed Schutzstaffel Stormtroops who in peacetime are Adolf Hitler's personal bodyguard.

The defeated Nazi division, named for the Fuehrer, is made up of the cream of German manpower, every man a "pure Aryan" by Hitler's most rigid standards.

(The German command said that Salum, five miles inside the Egyptian border, had been captured and the Nazi news agency asserted that the encircled British forces in Tobruk were attempting to escape by sea.

The German radio added that "the remnants of the British expeditionary force in North Africa" were waiting in an harbor town, presumably Tobruk, and were resisting to cover their embarkation.)

In an effort to halt the push of the German and Italian "Panzer" forces in Egypt, wiping out Britain's December conquest which seized eastern Libya and shattered the Italian north African army, British bombers are furiously bombing Axis columns moving across the desert toward Salum.

In the land fighting around Salum it was stated officially by the British middle east command of General Wavell, the British forces inflicted "considerable casualties" upon the Germans who appear, from all accounts here, to be bearing the brunt of the attack, with little mention made of Italy's armored forces, which actually far outnumber the Nazis.

Making no attempt to minimize the seriousness of the situation, British quarters estimated that from 100,000 to 120,000 armored German and Italian troops are engaged in the attack on Egypt.

There were said to be from two to four crack German "Panzer" divisions numbering 40,000 to 50,000 men and about four Italian divisions, including some mechanized units and totaling about 80,000 men.

Wavell needs men and needs them badly in North Africa.

Although large numbers of British troops are being released after the collapse of Italy's East African empire getting them to the Egyptian front is a major undertaking which cannot be accomplished overnight.

Wavell called today upon the Egyptian prime minister, Hussein Sirry Pasha, the British radio said, and a full meeting of the cabinet of invaded but still neutral Egypt followed. It is a safe guess that Wavell wants Egypt to throw her small but modern, British-trained army into the African war.

Nazis Rebuked As U.S. Backs De Kauffmann Examines 95, Plans Training

German Control of Danish Acts Cited; Italy Hurls Threat.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(UP)—The United States today held that the Danish government at Copenhagen is under German domination and thus is without authority to disturb the agreement with Danish Minister Hendrik de Kauffmann whereby this country assumed protective control over Greenland.

De Kauffmann was ordered home by his government, which held that he had negotiated the Greenland agreement without its consent. The minister, rebelling against the order, told Secretary of State Cordell Hull today that it was issued under duress and therefore was invalid both under Danish and generally recognized common law.

Hull agreed. In a letter seen as a rebuke to Germany and as solemn notice to the Axis powers that they will not be allowed to interfere with the Greenland arrangement, Hull assured De Kauffmann that this country would continue to recognize him as Denmark's top envoy to the United States.

"My government considers it to be the fact that the government in Denmark in this respect is acting under duress, and in consequence I have the honor to advise you that it continues to recognize you as the duly authorized minister in Washington," Hull wrote. "It renews its hope for the speedy liberation of Denmark."

The Greenland agreement is not the only source of friction between De Kauffmann and his government. Copenhagen was reported displeased because the minister did not join with Germany and Italy in protesting the seizure by this government of 28 Italian, two German and 39 Danish merchant ships a fortnight ago.

Prince Colonna, Italian ambassador, today presented a new official protest from his government against the seizure of the Italian ships to Assistant Secretary of State Breckinridge.

Seventy-Five To Be Selected For Instruction School

The State Patrol is giving physical and mental examinations to 95 prospective patrolmen this week in preparation for beginning of the patrol training school, in which 75 new men will be given courses in law enforcement and most of them added to the patrol.

Yesterday 42 men were examined, and 53 more have been selected to report at State Patrol headquarters for examinations later in the week.

Commissioner John E. Goodwin said the trainees were picked from 2,500 applications. The best of those who take the training course will be added to the roster of the patrol, he said, although not all will be assured jobs immediately.

The patrol now operates with 153 men. According to the law in which the Department of Public Safety was created, a maximum of 200 patrolmen may be employed at one time. At least 47 of the 75 men taking the training course will be added to make the patrol operate with a capacity staff, Goodwin said.

The men will receive instruction in traffic work, first aid, law enforcement and investigation procedure, it was said.

"I know that you really meant it..."
(A TRUE STORY)

"Your bank states that if people have credit problems you will be glad to help if you can. Taking that statement at its face value, here is my problem."

The problem was discussed—the bank officer made the loan and the concluding remark of the customer sums up the story:—

"I know now that you really meant it."

This story is only one of scores that I know have happened in our bank. Don't be misled by statements that banks will not lend money.

Right now—in this city—there are people who need money for a sound purpose—people who have good credit and are in position to obtain a bank loan. Yet they hesitate to come to the bank because someone has filled them with wrong ideas.

Discover for yourself, as one man did, that our bank is really sincere in the statements it makes. The bank will be careful—thousands of trusting depositors count on that—but if your request is sound—if it is a loan which any bank should handle—our bank will make it.

Turks To Stay Neutral Unless Axis Attacks

British Diplomats Increase Activity in Ankara.

ANKARA, Turkey, April 14.—(P)—Turkish intentions to observe strict neutrality unless attacked became increasingly apparent in the press today amid continued British diplomatic activity.

British Ambassador Sir Hughe M. Knatchbull-Hugessen saw Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu today after visiting President Ismet Inonu Saturday, but the nature of the talks was not divulged.

Widespread air raid exercises, which included dropping of parachutists yesterday in the Istanbul area, were pronounced a complete success.

"Germany is using very soft language to Turkey," the newspaper Ikdam said. "We are glad of this, but it doesn't lull us to sleep. Perhaps Germany is sincere, but let's be prepared for the worst."

Briton Says War In Decisive Phase

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(P) British Minister Neville M. Butler told the Daughters of the American Revolution tonight that the European "war is now in its decisive phase."

Butler was the keynote speaker at the opening session of the D. A. R. Golden Jubilee Continental Congress.

"This is no doubt the crucial period of the war at sea," said Butler, "and if the Germans do not strangle us now they never will. For the forces arrayed against them are growing stronger."

Panama City Officers Face Federal Charge

PANAMA CITY, Fla., April 14.—(P)—Federal officers today arrested five law enforcement officers here, including Sheriff John Scott, on capias charging conspiracy to defraud the government of internal revenue through handling of liquors on which federal taxes had not been paid.

The indictment against the officers charged them with possessing and controlling stills, distilling apparatus and liquors, and possessing and transporting liquors on which federal taxes had not been paid.

Look Out!... PROPAGANDA!

BY NORMAN CHANDLER, CHAIRMAN, NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS COMMITTEE

HAVE you ever noticed how clearly and carefully the NEWS in your newspaper is LABELED?

Dispatches tell you WHERE the news came from; WHO said WHAT; and, whenever possible, why he said it, and what the OTHER side was.

Newspapers HAVE to be this careful. True, you, the reader, can't check up on them YOURSELF, but, in a country where freedom of speech and thought exists, no newspaper can LIVE if it tells lies. Other newspapers, or even your free-speaking neighbors, would quickly expose any deliberate "propaganda" to you.

In a democracy where every citizen is a voter, a PARTICIPANT in government, some way has to be devised to INFORM the citizen. Some way must be found to insure that he gets the TRUTH at all times.

And what we call "free speech" does the trick! If the government could suppress any paper that disagreed with it, how long do you think you would hear the TRUTH about the government?

You, the citizen, have given over to the unmuzzled American press the job of WARNING you of dangers, informing you of the behavior of the world.

You, the citizen, need never grope about blindfolded—as long as you'll be very stubborn about ONE THING:

Keep the right of all men to speak out publicly. Bind the press, as you have, only with fetters of truth and decency!

Over 300 leading newspaper publishers join together to bring you this weekly message about the function of the press in a free nation. Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Ave., New York.

Police Thwart Prison Break After Four Die

Three Long-Termers Have Brief Respite From Sing Sing.

OSSENING, N. Y., April 14.—(AP)—Armed with smuggled guns and crudely fashioned keys, three desperate, long-term convicts broke from Sing Sing prison today and after seven dramatic hours four persons were dead, including one of the fugitives, and the two other felons were captured.

Those taken after a wild dash for freedom—Joseph (Whitey) Riordan, 24, and Charles McGale, 45—were arraigned before the Police Magistrate Vincent Fuller on two charges each of murder in the first degree and were taken to Westchester county jail at East-view.

The charges involved the slaying of a Sing Sing guard and a city policeman.

Other victims of the abortive prison break were Convict John Waters, 30, shot by Ossining officers, and Convict McGovern Miller, 35, who died of heart disease during the melee inside the prison.

Riordan and Waters gained entrance to the prison hospital at 2 a. m. by feigning illness. There they met their co-conspirator, McGale, a trusty. The trio, serving sentences for armed robbery, had plotted for six months to escape.

The three men suddenly whipped out guns smuggled to them previously in a milk truck by outside confederates and shot John Hartye, a prison guard.

The only other guard on duty in the infirmary, Matteo de Simone, was overpowered.

Patients in the infirmary were cowed into silence and it was almost an hour before the Sing Sing siren wailed the escape alarm—the first it had sounded in eight years.

Barely away from the prison grounds, the convicts had a chance meeting with a cruising Ossining police patrol car.

Waters and Patrolman James Fagan 32, were killed in the battle.

The wailing Sing Sing escape alarm set into action one of the greatest searches the area had ever seen.

F. D. R. Scores 'Pincer' Move, Columnist Says

Rumanian coup, which, they complained, had been undertaken without consulting them. When Bulgaria was occupied, they addressed sharp words to Bulgaria, if not to Germany. When Yugoslavia was invaded, they went much further. On the very eve of the attack, they concluded a treaty of friendship with their fellow-Slavs. If Turkey is attacked, they will go another step away from the Axis, and actually give Turkey aid—their own version of a lend-lease bill.

Matchek Shrewd.
These diplomatic developments are far more important than the occupation of Yugoslavia, or even Greece, either of which, incidentally, will continue to be a headache to the Germans. The installation in Croatia, Yugoslav province, of Ante Pavelic, one of the murderers of the Yugoslav King, Alexander, who has been kept in hock by the Italians for this moment, is exactly calculated to turn every Serb into a guerilla fighter and an expert saboteur. As for the blessing that this coup received, or is supposed to have received, from Vidmair Matchek, the Croatian peasant leader—Mr. Matchek is a shrewd peasant, who more than once has not let his right hand know what his left hand is doing.

The decisive areas of this war will not be in the Mediterranean or in North Africa, but in the North Atlantic and in the Middle East—around the Red sea, the Arabian sea and the Indian ocean. And last week, while Yugoslavia was collapsing, Mr. Roosevelt took two measures of a vastly greater importance. He declared that Greenland is part of the Western Hemisphere—which the geographers all concede it is—and made a deal with the Danish government in exile, for American bases there. With this gesture, he has cut the gap between the Western Hemisphere and the British Isles to about 1,300 miles, with Iceland, occupied by the British, in between. And he has declared that, since the British have cleaned up Ethiopia, the Red sea and the Gulf of Aden are free for American ships.

Hitler sooner or later will certainly drive through Turkey to Iran, because he wants oil, and that will bring him in conflict with Turkey and sharpen still further his relations with Russia. Russia will probably not fight unless attacked, but while not fighting, will maintain a benevolent policy towards Germany's enemies.

So the net effect of the Yugoslav heroism is to estrange Russia, while the United States has made swift and extremely important moves on the periphery of both important areas of the war.

Viewed on a planetary scale, Hitler's attack is a tweezer movement, while Roosevelt's policy represents a pincer movement on the whole of the European continent, or rather peninsula—for that is what Europe is: a peninsula of Asia.

The President's move is the move of a man who is ocean-minded, and of an American accustomed to think in terms of vast spaces. To that sort of mind the Mediterranean is a lake, a very convenient lake to be sure, the possible closing of which would be a serious setback, but not the ultimate catastrophe.

Hitler knows this, too, and therefore he will make a terrific attempt in the main areas of the war, particularly in the North Atlantic directly against Britain. But Marshal Petain's statement that France—and that means the French navy—will not engage against her former ally, is also of far more importance than the German conquest of Yugoslavia.

With time, Germany cannot win this war. The short run is what counts, and not the Mediterranean, but the Atlantic fortress, the British Isles, are what count—the British Isles and the Middle East.

For Britain, ships and bombers—bombers which she can use as convoys—count. America counts; Russia counts; the Balkan peninsula and even North Africa count only incidentally. Armageddon will not be fought in either area.

Mate Lost Overboard In Disturbance on Deck
NORFOLK, Va., April 14.—(AP) Harry B. Murphy, 47, mate of the Norfolk and Washington steamer Northland, was thrown overboard and lost last night while trying to stop a disturbance on deck, officials of the line informed police when the boat arrived here today.

Murphy disappeared soon after striking the water, and although a search was made for his body, it was not recovered. He was a resident of Washington, D. C.

Three young men were detained for questioning as officials sought to clear up a question of jurisdiction. The disturbance occurred after the steamer passed Quantico on the way to Norfolk, and it was uncertain whether the case should be handled by Virginia, Maryland or federal authorities.

Concert Orchestra At O'Keefe Tonight

Dr. Joseph Maddy, nationally known musician who is director of the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich., and professor of radio music education at the University of Michigan, will conduct the "In and About Atlanta Orchestra" in concert at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the O'Keefe Junior high school auditorium at Techwood drive and Sixth street.

Also on the program with the orchestra will be the Atlanta Junior Ensemble of 55 pieces, which Dr. Maddy will direct. The conductor arrived Sunday for a series of rehearsals with the orchestra and ensemble. The "In and About Atlanta Orchestra" is composed of 75 of the best high school musicians in this district.

Venereal Clinic Plan Referred To City Council

Transfer of Jurisdiction Contingent Upon State Support.

A proposed ordinance placing the Atlanta health department's venereal disease clinic under the jurisdiction of the new Hospital Authority, provided such a change will not eliminate state financial support, will go before city council at its next meeting.

The plan was discussed briefly yesterday by Mayor LeCraw and members of the council's health and sanitary committee, after a public hearing held in connection with a petition to operate a stockyard on Bouldercrest drive, near Flat Shoals road.

LeCraw outlined an "ultimate" plan whereby all the health department's clinical operations would be transferred to the metropolitan hospital authority created by the 1901 legislature. The department, however, would continue its operation of health licensing and disease prevention bureaus.

Dr. J. F. Hackney, assistant city health officer who was present at the meeting, pointed out that the state now contributes about $20,000 yearly to the operation of the venereal disease clinic and feared that this allotment would be cut off if the clinic were removed from the health department.

It was decided that the proposed ordinance would seek to permit the transfer of the clinic, contingent upon the continued support from the state. LeCraw said he would not be in favor of any change if it meant the end of the state's contribution.

Other clinical functions of the health department would not be changed until the Hospital Authority begins operation and can handle the added load. LeCraw and Dr. Hackney both agreed that the aim of the group should be to "eliminate duplication of activity, operate at a minimum of expense and provide clinical facilities for as many as possible."

The committee, after a public hearing, ordered D. P. Moore to remove horses and mules from his stockyard on Bouldercrest drive to some point outside the city limits because he did not have a permit to keep them.

Residents of the vicinity objected to the operation of the stockyard, and a score of them appeared at the hearing.

Britons Ask for Truth

There can be no denial, at this time, that the news from war arenas of the old world is extremely bad for Britain. By the same token, it is equally bad for the United States and for all the free peoples remaining in the world.

Over the weekend the British press has made strong protest against what it describes as official war communiques, from its own government, which give false impressions as to the situation. The British people, the London papers contend, can stand knowing the truth, no matter how bad it is, and to deceive them is tantamount to aiding the enemy.

Why, one paper pertinently asks, does British officialdom announce the advance of General Wavell's forces in Libya, and the fall of Bengasi into British hands, as a major victory and then, when the Germans recapture the disputed territory and the Libyan towns, it is, according to the official statements, of value "for propaganda purposes" only?

Undoubtedly much, perhaps all, depends upon the outcome of the battles now raging in the eastern Mediterranean area. If the Germans succeed in smashing British and Greek resistance on the line from Mount Olympus to the Albanian border, if the Nazis succeed in their evident objective of taking Alexandria and the Suez Canal, the British cause in that part of the world will be lost. All that will remain will be Britain herself, sore pressed by mounting losses in ship tonnage on the Atlantic and in the waters around the little island.

As for the United States, if the tide does not turn quickly any help this country might extend will come too late. For a year and a half the people of America have failed to awaken to the terrible urgency of the peril and now it appears highly probable they will be left, alone in a totalitarian world, to look back upon their blindness of 1940 and to say only those saddest of words, "It might have been."

Strategists have said, for many months, that the outcome of the war will be decided this summer. For, if the British can hold out until Fall, American aid will then be ready in such quantity that Nazi defeat will be sure. But what good is that material if we cannot send it across the Atlantic?

The cold, bitter truth today is that the chances for Hitler victory within a few months were never brighter than now. And, when Britain once falls, the last stronghold of English-speaking democracy will be on this side of the Atlantic, facing a jealous and powerful foe from both oceans.

As for the new Russo-Japanese pact, its results cannot be forecast. Certainly, it frees the hands of Japan in the Orient and thus it constitutes one more blow to the world cause of the democracies.

Some fine day the country will ask, "Going my way?" and John L. Lewis may absently-mindedly answer "Yes."

"I Am An American" Day

May 18 has been proclaimed by President Roosevelt as "I Am An American" Day. This is the new name for "Citizenship" Day which has been observed for the two past years.

Primary purpose of the day is to welcome into citizenship all those who have achieved that status in the preceding 12 months, whether because they have reached the age of 21 or because they have been naturalized.

While no plans for observance of the day have yet been announced in Atlanta, other cities will conduct ceremonies sponsored by civic clubs, patriotic organizations, fraternal societies, schools, social agencies, etc. Inasmuch as the date falls on a Sunday there will, undoubtedly, be references to it from almost every pulpit in the land.

It is well to set aside a specific day for turning the spotlight upon citizenship, its privileges and its duties. Nevertheless observance of such a day is useless unless it results in greater consciousness of the importance and the responsibility of citizenship by all of us on every day of the year.

Particularly at this time is there urgent need for a reawakening of the intense realization of citizenship and of the patriotism that makes the citizen count all else lost if his country loses the divine spark which brought it into being. The divine spark of full belief in freedom for all men and of refusal to accept any form of dictatorship or tyranny, whether it originate on this or on the other side of the ocean.

How strange that so many revived jokes of '14-'18 are found to fit the present picture, as it is definitely not an amusing war.

A Business Contribution

Robert W. Woodruff's annual letter to the stockholders of the Coca-Cola Company, containing the report for 1940, was delivered in yesterday's mail.

Brief and to the point, it provides a refreshing pause in which to see, through the record itself, what this company is doing in supporting not merely national defense, but the national economy. Through it one also may see and appreciate a picture of American business and industry and all they mean to the nation.

Georgians will be pardoned if they take a special pride in the accomplishments of this company since it is a product of the state and of the Georgians who direct it. Georgians would not want to be thought of as boasting a bit if they said that if all American business had succeeded as well as this southern company, the national picture would be a better one.

This letter to the stockholders is the unique one of the year. It is brief. Where the letters of other companies have devoted paragraphs and even pages to increased taxes the letter of Mr. Woodruff makes no mention of taxes. Yet the tax bill was $12,520,000, which was an increase of $5,177,000, or 70 per cent, over the preceding year. Coca-Cola's business set a new net record, before taxes. The net income was $41,404,752 as against $36,373,374 for 1939. The net, less taxes with their increase of more than $5,000,000, was $28,884,752 as against $29,030,374 in 1939.

This business story, of a company paying its taxes and making no mention of them, is by no means the whole story. This Georgian-born company, directed by Georgians, not only has increased its net income year after year but has rounded out the picture with an ever-increasing number of employees and an ever-growing pay roll.

In the past five years, on top of an outstanding achievement since the organization of the present company in 1920, the company has shown an increase in employment double that of the national average and its pay roll increases have been even greater. The record since 1920 has been one of continuing growth and contribution in service and employment.

It is a story of business. In a day when there is an "all out" demand on all of us, this record of a patriotic American company is a thrilling contribution to the story of business. Huge taxes are paid to finance defense. More people are put to work. More wages are paid. Stockholders receive dividends. This is the very essence of the American way.

Incidentally, Mr. Woodruff, as chairman of the board, is being cited by some of his stockholders for being somewhat verbose in his report. It contained a mere 129 words but this was five more words than the five-year average of 124 words.

That is an extra word for each of the millions added to the income tax bill.

A Michigan wife tells police she neglected to report a husband's disappearance as she was in the throes of spring cleaning. Incidentally, we believe we know the solution of this case.

We see by the "Fifty Years Ago Today" column that that would be as good a stopping place as any for time, turning backward in its flight.

As no more is heard of the green mouse reported by a Canadian biologist, it is believed the latter must have switched to the seven-year-old stuff.

A 70-day strike in a vital defense industry is more than a bottleneck: It's the old prohibition dilemma—a built-in cork and no cork-screw.

Georgia Editors Say:

SENTIMENT STRONGLY AGAINST STRIKES

(From The Thomasville Times Record)

The Mitchell county selective service board may have acted without authority when it announced it would place all registrants in a deferred classification until the strikes which are holding up national defense are stopped, but the board certainly expressed the sentiment of a great majority of the people of the United States.

It is anything but fair to take young men away from their homes and jobs and send them to army camps for a year's training at $21 per month pay, when men who are making several times that much quit their jobs and refuse to do their work in manufacturing items for our national defense because they want more pay, want one union instead of another to do their bargaining, or for some other trivial reason.

Strikes in plants working on defense orders have gone so far that some men are even making the statement that they would just as soon shoulder arms against those responsible for them as to march against the legions of the ruthless dictators.

It is inconceivable that the men in congress won't do something to stop these strikes and soon, especially when it appears that Hitler's boast that he would not have to attack the United States, but would be able to tie up this country without fighting when the time came, is being made good. Members of organized labor, whether they realize it or not, are being made the tool of Hitler to hinder and sabotage our defense program.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

JOINT STRATEGY WASHINGTON, April 14.—As British-American collaboration approaches war partnership it is increasingly apparent that the most crying need in Washington is for some mechanism to give maximum effect to the two nations' joint actions. The need is strongly felt by influential officials at the War and Navy Departments, and has recently been thoroughly canvassed at the White House. There is a reasonable chance that something may be done.

Various alternatives suggest themselves, such as the appointment of a joint strategy committee composed of British and American military, air and naval officers of high rank and influential civilians. But, before discussing the ways to meet the need, it will be useful to document its existence.

PENALTIES OF INDECISION Having accepted collaboration with Britain by passing the lease-lend bill, this country is now a direct participant in all major war problems. Under the present arrangement, war problems are discussed between the President and Winston Churchill, who are now in continuous, close contact by telephone, cable and diplomatic messenger. They are also pondered by the various departments and agencies of the two governments, communicating through the embassies, and through such media as the British purchasing commission and the representatives of the ministry of economic warfare in Washington.

There is no central body of men, however, who are charged with studying joint strategy in all its aspects and collecting data on correlating and exploring the ramifications of the staggeringly big questions involved in joint strategy. This task is too great for any two individuals. As the President and the British prime minister both have hundreds of other unavoidable preoccupations, the task is not done at all.

A typical result is the blow-hot-blow-cold policy which the two governments have pursued toward the French. Its failings can best be seen in the management of the North African situation. French North Africa is one of the critical areas in the war. If the Germans obtain a foothold there, Spain and probably Portugal will fall into the arms of the Axis, and the western Mediterranean will become a German lake, only to be recaptured by conquest. Some months ago the able American counselor of embassy at Vichy, Robert Murphy, was sent to French North Africa to learn what Weygand needed to reinforce his independence. He returned with that report that such a situation of military commodities, particularly the tea and sugar much in demand among the Arabs, would be extremely helpful.

Action on Murphy's report was deferred, however, because the British ministry of economic warfare opposed sending General Weygand anything. Since Murphy's trip, nothing but one of oil has been let through. Yet now a representative of the ministry of economic warfare is in Washington advocating precisely the kind of action suggested by Murphy months ago as vitally necessary to have a situation in prospect of rapid decision.

That kind of thing happens pretty often. If the British were at fault over French North Africa, our own people are to blame for their strangely nebulous and timid approach to the problem of active American participation in economic warfare on all fronts. Another example is the curiously indecisive British-American policy in the Far East. And still another, in the pivotal production field, is the failure until the passage of the lease-lend bill to work out even the roughest sort of consolidated schedule of war material requirements, and the failure since that time to translate the rough schedule into more specific terms.

A POSSIBLE SOLUTION The truth is that for want of a group of men competent and authorized to consider the big questions of joint strategy, decisions are simply put off until the questions become too acute to be ignored. By then, of course, they are much more troublesome than they would have been if tackled more promptly.

The nucleus of such a group already exists in the form of the "central staff" being recruited by Harry L. Hopkins to administer the lease-lend program. Hopkins' central staff cannot do the whole job, however, for several obvious reasons. First, its administrative business is too pressing, and has first call. Second, it does not and probably will not contain military, naval and air officers with the rank and experience needed on a joint strategy committee. And, finally, the British representation is essential, since mutual exchange of views must be the foundation of joint strategy, and there is no British representation.

Consequently some influential persons propose formation of a separate body, composed of British and American members, connected with Hopkins' central staff and perhaps using it as a secretariat, but directly responsible only to the heads of the two governments. The proposal has gained substantial support in the two service departments and, so far as is known, is not opposed at the White House. The chief objection raised against it to date is political, the argument being that disclosure of such a body's existence will alarm public opinion. But surely the time has passed when it is necessary to boggle at important moves, to which no military risk attaches, because an isolationist senator may make an angry speech.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Driving Without Light. Have you ever wondered what it would be like to drive at night with no light whatsoever? Not only without light on your own car, but without light of any kind, on other cars or to designate the road.

Well, in the current issue of Highway Highlights, which is put out by the National Highway Users Conference of Washington, I came across a description of such an experience. It was a quotation from the Sunday Express, a London newspaper. It describes a journey on a 12-ton truck going from London to Leeds at night.

"As we advance through wall after wall of darkness," says the report, "the driver seemed to know exactly what was ahead and what was behind him. He said: 'You trusted him absolutely. You could feel the weight of the cargo giving a little from side to side as we crossed the camber of the road. The driver never used his horn once on the whole journey, nor his single head lamp either, except at a blind corner, a friend and I had to go on our way around, or when we passed another truck going in the same direction.'"

"As we set off for another inland town, another driver informed us, 'You'll know when you reach it because there is a bump just before you come around the corner. When it's too dark to see anything, you can still get around by that bump.'"

Nice going, I imagine.

The Night At Athens.

We ate a late supper at Athens while the car was again repaired. And started joyfully for home. Only to have the lights fail again some three or four miles this side of the classic city. It was on a curve and we almost went into a deep ditch. So we returned to Athens, spent the night at a hotel there and came home by daylight the following day.

That was bad enough. But we were the only car without lights. Others lit the road for us, when passing, anyway.

I imagine it must be something else again to drive a 12-ton truck along the night highway under the stringency of a wartime, complete blackout.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Saturday, April 15, 1916:

"Washington, April 14.—President Wilson and the cabinet went over the submarine crisis again today and reaffirmed their determination to bring the situation with Germany to an issue."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Wednesday, April 15, 1891:

"Amount asked for—$10,000. Raised in one night—$6,285. That is, in brief, the record of a few hours' work in behalf of the Young Men's Christian Association."

Forgot Queries

WASHINGTON, April 14.—I started out yesterday to tell you about the questions people ask of a fellow just returned from England, and wound up with a sermon. Well, that's what you've got to expect of us intellectuals.

But today I promise to stick to the questions. It seems to me that, on the whole, people ask most frequently the very questions which they've already had answered the most—such as "Is British morale good?" "Is the U-b-boat menace serious?" "Is the air force going?" "Are they really solidly behind Churchill?" The answer to all of them is yes.

But the most unusual question anyone asked me was this:

"Did it really seem like war to you?"

And the answer is:

"It never did." All during my winter in England I worried because I couldn't seem to summon into my stories the drama and vividness some of the other boys put into theirs. I felt that something inside me must have worn out, that I could be there in the very midst of what we all agree is "the greatest story of our time," and still not be torn asunder the horror of it.

Seemed Unreal

But it is the truth, it never actually seemed real to me. On that night of the great fire during the holidays, I somehow couldn't believe that those motors overhead bore men who were wilfully and deliberately looking down and doing this thing because we were at war.

That whole night seemed more like something put on just to look at; like some ultimate Billy Rose extravaganza, at last attaining to such proportions of Rose gigantism that it passed beyond the realm of human credence—but still remained a form of entertainment.

On my first day's walking trip around London, the destruction impressed me more as being some catastrophe wrought by nature, than as individual badges of man's savagery.

The fires always seemed like peacetime fires to me. When I went to hospitals, the people were bandaged and trussed up just as they are after nice American auto accidents. The barbed wire around St. James Park always seemed like a stage effect.

When in the middle of a movie the picture would stop and on the screen would flash the announcement of an air raid warning, I always felt to myself: "They have the oddest customs in these foreign countries."

And when there were raids late at night, I would lie in bed trying to keep awake till the "all clear" sounded, not so much for the sense of relief it would bring, but because I loved to listen to the siren. I still think it is beautiful.

I have tried to explain all these things to friends, and they have said that perhaps my feelings were conditioned by the knowledge that I wasn't there for the duration; that in a few months I would be coming back.

There is very probably, something in what they say. I don't put too much weight to their views. For no matter what they argue, you must also remember this—that on many and many a night nobody knew for sure that he was ever coming back.

Always A Limit

People ask if there is a limit to what the British can take. My answer is that there's a limit to what anybody can take.

You can take a one-night blitz, for it's climactic and vastly exciting, and you have to take it anyway. But get five or six or eight or ten nights in a row—pounding night after night after night—with the odds of your survival growing slimmer every night and death and chaos and disruption all about you—yes, very definitely there's a limit to what anybody can take.

One friend of mine asked nothing. He simply said, "I'm not going to insult you by asking, after having read all your pieces, to tell us now what it was really like."

I think I appreciated that remark more than any other. For I told him in the columns, as clearly and truthfully as my capabilities permit, just what it was like.

The censors didn't cut out much of my stuff. Now that I'm back I have no "inside dope" to reveal. I couldn't think of a startling secret to tell if you held a gun at my head.

I've told all I know. And so this is the end—the curtain on one more voyage to strange realms. The strangest voyage of all. I hope that you who have traveled with me will be content to come now, for a few months at least, into lands not so fearful and into lives less on intimate terms with Death.

generation, are losing the feeling of pride in work well done. . . . Men who work with their hands are not the only ones who have been indicted for this sort of sloppiness. . . . The ineptitude of workers in some trades has become a national joke."

INEPTITUDE. Ineptitude is a noun pronounced in-ep-ti-tude with the accent on the second syllable (ept). The third syllable (i) is pronounced like (ti) and the (u) in the last syllable is long and rhymes with that in dude.

Inept is an adjective and means unfit, not suitable, out of place, unbecoming, incapable of correctly performing a task; inefficient; foolish.

Ineptitude is the quality of being inept; the result. A beginner may show his ineptitude in performing a given task. The more he practices, the more workers; their actions betrayed their ineptitude.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

BATTLE PLANS

The greatest reporter in the world is history. There is one great trouble with this reporter. It is years and years before he turns in a story.

When the story of this war is written it will have at least one chapter in it dealing with the element of surprise the Germans employed so successfully.

This is not a new element. And history, the veteran reporter, no doubt, will have a few footnotes saying the element of surprise has proved effective in all wars. He also may comment that the most surprising thing about surprises is they should be surprising. I hope I am around, 10 or 20 years hence, to read the story by the greatest of all reporters.

In the battle of Belgium the Allied leaders expected the Germans to attack across the plains in front of Brussels. The Meuse gorge was a difficult place to storm. Nature had protected it and made it possible for a relatively small number of men to hold it. Or, so they figured. They put their chief defenses in front of Brussels.

The Germans flung their greatest force of mechanized troops into the gorge, helped out with planes—and pierced the line. The battle of Belgium was lost before it really got started.

In the attack on France the same tactics were followed. The big guns blazed away at a point where the fewest guns were placed. In the attack on Yugoslavia, the Serbs planned to drop back across the plains to the mountains, fighting a delaying action and taking what toll they could. Once in the mountains, they planned a sturdier defense where the tanks and heavy guns would have difficulty reaching.

The Germans struck hard and fast at the mountains where the Serbs had relatively few men. The mountains were taken and the Yugoslav army broken; the main army cut off from where it expected to make a defense; the Greek flank exposed and forced into retreat. The battle of Yugoslavia, in so far as any resistance was concerned, was over. There still is fighting. But the army of Yugoslavia was beaten days ahead of schedule.

The first break-through in Greece came when the Germans stormed the one pass through which they were not expected to strike.

The Germans have been able to choose their own time of attack. And the place.

They have been able to attack an established line, break it, and demoralize the country behind it. The brand-new technique of war still hasn't been met.

The Allies still lack sufficient materials to break through the German advances and snarl up their lines. The new technique makes it almost impossible to hold a long-extended line against a mechanized drive at any one point.

THE CURSE OF NEUTRALITY.

It is entirely probable that no matter who wins the war, we have seen the twilight of the small nations.

The curse of neutrality will be upon them for a long time to come. The warring victor will not permit any small nation, likely to play a part in war as a battlefield or belligerent, to establish an independent status. England won't. Or Germany won't.

The victor who is one of fury. Finland might have stopped Russia for a long period of time and changed the course of the war had Sweden allowed English and French troops to cross their territory. Now Sweden is caught between Norway and Denmark as a pawn. Neutral Denmark was taken without a struggle. Norway fell even with English troops on her soil. They got there too late, because it was impossible to plan for them in advance. Germany was able to choose the time and place.

England was neutral and refused to allow the Maginot line to be extended. Belgium was neutral until the invasion started. It was too late for effective raid to reach them.

Holland was neutral. Holland would not allow any planes for defense to be made until it was too late.

Greece, defeating the Italians, held out to seemingly friendly relations with Germany until the attack actually came. It was too late to get English supplies and men there in a hurry.

Yugoslavia was neutral. Yugoslavia was without assisting troops or supplies when the attack came.

When the war is done the victor, no matter which nation it is, will impose supervision on all the small nations. Many of them, as has Austria, Poland and Czechoslovakia, will disappear entirely.

It need not be argued that Switzerland and Portugal have been able to remain neutral. There always must be one or two neutrals through which work with the rest of the world may be done.

The twilight of the small nations is at hand and darkness is coming fast.

THE WORKINGS OF DEMOCRACY.

This abolishment of small nations in the workings of the world power drive by Germany, is more than tragic.

The small countries had worked out a democratic plan which was being improved each year. Untroubled by racial minorities and with small populations, their problems were the less difficult. Nevertheless, they had achieved notable success.

Their countries were pleasant places to live. They had not abolished poverty, but they had abolished slums. They had done this absolutely.

They had abolished illiteracy, or at least reduced it to an irreducible minimum. They had none. Their libraries were busy.

They had no rural communities, drying up and blowing away because of eroded, worthless soil. They had none of that. They did not know about land "wearing out" because they did not permit it.

When they cut timber they planted as much or more than they cut.

They had done a lot of fine things and had made this a better world because of their work.

Now it is gone for a long, long time.

It is not pleasant to think about. So few things are.

A Truce Makes All Wild Creatures Brothers When Flood or Fire Threatens Them

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Noisy isolationist senators ask why Americans should give their treasure and sweat and perhaps their lives to help an ancient foe they twice defeated to win and hold their freedom.

The answer is simple. To most of us the English are brothers.

They have faults, as all brothers have. They think England is God's chosen people. The upper class is arrogant. Even their practice of modest understatement is a kind of brag. Only the cocksure can be that modest. And the way they treat lower-class people—their kindly, tolerant, insolent condescension—would madden anybody else.

But faults are forgotten when brothers stand shoulder to shoulder to defend their house against assault. And a threat to one is a threat to the other, for the ties of blood are stronger than steel.

In strange parts across the world, where sailors of all races mingle and clashes are frequent, British and Americans invariably support one another against the foe.

And when Dewey had taken Manila, and a German admiral showed displeasure, a British squadron anchored between the German and American ships and silently dared the Germans to point a gun.

Brothers quarrel, but their differences are forgotten when a showdown comes.

Georgian Appointed

By Jersey Cattle Club
Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ATHENS, Ga., April 14.—The appointment of Clifton Albert Ward, of Athens, to head the production testing and herd classification services of the American Jersey Cattle Club, has been announced by Lewis W. Morley, executive secretary of the national organization of Jersey cattle breeders.

Ward, who has been a member of the animal husbandry department at the University of Georgia since 1937, and coach of that school's dairy judging teams, will take up his new duties at the national headquarters of the Jersey breed in New York City, April 15. He will succeed Lynn Copeland, nationally known authority on dairy breeding, who has held this position for nearly 15 years.

Milk Mixture For Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery, being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonsful in a half glass of milk. Costs but little and sold under an absolute guarantee that it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Jacobs Drug Stores and drug stores everywhere.—(adv.)

Somebody Ought to Tell Her about an Electric Range

IT CUTS COOKING COSTS TO THE BONE

Some folks still think it costs a lot of money to run an Electric Range. But it doesn't. During the past ten years electric rates have been cut in half. And the efficiency of the Electric Range has been improved, so that it requires less electricity. Today it costs little, if any more, to cook electrically. This fact is attested by the 60,000 Georgia housewives who have changed to Electric Ranges. Superior cleanliness, added safety, extra convenience, new speed—all of the advantages of modern Electric Cookery are in easy reach now. So why not change to an Electric Range? Come by our nearest store and let us show you how little it will actually cost you.

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY

Dudley Glass

Few folks I dislike more than one of those big, rugged, hairy chested, red-blooded outdoor men who revel in the tang of a chill nor'easter on their pink cheeks—that is, if they insist on my sharing their blizzard. As far as I'm concerned they can hike up beyond the Arctic Circle and sleep on an ice floe if they don't insist on my companionship.

One of them cornered me a few mornings ago, early. It was a tough corner, too. Marietta and Broad, where tall buildings deflect the winds and detour them up your pants legs.

The late Mr. Coleridge relates, in detail, how the ancient mariner buttonholed the wedding guest—who was 20 minutes late anyway—inserted a calloused finger in said guest's buttonhole and backed him up against a fireplug while he—the mariner—told a long-drawn-out story about a voyage and an albatross. It was a good yarn he told and he told it well—but no story is good when a chap is on the way to a party and afraid the gin will run out before he gets there.

But Mr. Coleridge, if I remember correctly, said nothing about the temperature of the velocity in the wind. I do not recall whether he mentioned the date as in August or February. That would have an important bearing on the subject.

But when this fiend captured me the other morning I had run out without an overcoat to confer with a banker. On matters not unconcerned with the question of a note.

He—the street acquaintance, not the banker—backed me against the corner of the City & South. On the windy side. He was glowing with health and a 20-pound overcoat turned up at the neck.

He said he had a little story that would go fine in my column, which his mother reads religiously. I thought that wasn't the best word that could be chosen, but I was cold and decided on making no interruptions.

Back to a Start.

"This story has got to go back a little," he explained. "But it won't take but a minute."

"It's about a fellow named C. K. Jones. You wouldn't know him. Everybody called him 'Cy.' Perhaps because his name was Cyrus. I'm not certain about that, but you know any old timer in Fayette county and he'll tell you."

"I certainly will," I responded. "What happened to him?"

"Nothing happened to him," explained my narrator. "I'm just giving you the background. It was his nephew it happened to, and it was as funny as the dickens. Now, let's see, what was his nephew's name? You threw me off the track, but it will come to me."

"Pardon me, Bill," I said. "But I am on my way to a conference concerning the national debt—and every minute I keep those big shots waiting it's growing bigger. By leaps and bounds—if there are any bounds."

"Sure, I know," said Bill. "But this won't take but a minute. Now, where was I?"

"This nephew of a man named Cy," I responded. "Suppose we just slip inside this building, out of the wind."

"Not worth while," he insisted. "This won't take but a minute. It seems Cy's nephew—darn it, I wish that name would come to me—started out from Fayetteville with a truckload of corn. I mean corn in the ear, not in tin cans. Or maybe it was hogs. Or cabbage. It doesn't have any bearing on the story."

"What story," queried my correspondent, his teeth chattering under old Boreas' wintry blast. It was spring on the calendar but not at Marietta and Broad.

At the Crossroads.

"Why, this story I'm getting too," explained Bill. "I'll tell it, started out from Fayetteville with a load of hogs—or garden truck or something—I wish you wouldn't keep interrupting. And he came to a crossroads."

"There were two or three people standing there at the crossroads. A man and a woman and a kid. Maybe two kids. Now, let's see. Where were two? I'm trying to get this straightened out in my mind, so when you print it there won't be any comeback. I know you newspaper folks have to be careful. But you'll get a big kick out of this story."

"Would you mind letting go of my coat button?" I pleaded. "It's loose, anyway. Of course, if you want it, you can have it."

"This won't take but a minute," he insisted. "And you'll laugh your head off."

"So this fellow stopped his truck and pulled up beside the road—oh, hell, there's my street car! I'll tell you the rest some other time."

"Make it June," I yelled, as he released his hold and ran for the car. "Any June!"

Gee, it was good to drape myself over a steam radiator for 20 minutes.

Wonder whether that really was a good story! It might be—in June, or August!

Editor Jack Hilton, of the Banks County Journal, once more demonstrates that it pays to advertise.

"Mr. Lee Ayers found an automobile tag on the road east of town last Tuesday and brought it to our office. We wrote a little notice and had it set up in type, giving the number on the tag. Later in the day we happened to notice that one of the tags on our car was missing, looking at the tag Mr. Ayers had brought in, and that was her, 'shore nuf.'"

Spring Sunshine Sends Mercury to New High

By The Associated Press.
Spring sunshine yesterday sent the mercury up into the high eighties in parts of the country, with Atlantic City, N. J., reporting a high of 87 degrees, the highest recording since the weather bureau was established there 72 years ago.

Unseasonably warm weather spread over most of the area east of the Mississippi river. St. Louis had a high of 89; Cleveland, 85; Chicago, 83; Pittsburgh, 84; Little Rock, 84; Cincinnati, 80, and Detroit, 87.

In New England, the temperatures were much lower, with Bangor reporting a low of 38; Portland, Maine, 43; Boston, 48; Albany and Syracuse, N. Y., 56.

Bill Includes Cotton In Insurance Plan

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP) A renewed attempt to expand government crop insurance to cover cotton was started today.

Senator Bilbo, Democrat, Mississippi, offered a bill to amend the Federal Crop Insurance Act of 1938 to include both cotton and cottonseed in crop insurance coverage.

A similar amendment was approved by the Senate Agricultural Committee in 1939, but was not approved by President Roosevelt.

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS SEVERELY CRITICIZED

Editor Constitution: If publishers desire to sell their products to country folk, they should investigate the criminally lazy and arrogant conduct of those highly favored pets of this government known as country mail carriers.

These patriots, desirous of conserving gas and their own efforts as well as shielding their pretty cars from mud, refuse to bring the mail over the road even when other cars are traveling with impunity. They are not only pensioned, but highly salaried to the extent that thousands would gladly serve for half the pay. Frequently they have a holiday on a Saturday, of course, are off on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday it may rain, Thursday and the rest of the week roads are impassable. Result: Farmer's mail has accumulated until the news is ancient. He doesn't care to pay for it. I've trudged two miles to take a check for taxes to the route of a reliable postman.

FOUND STANTON BOOK IN SAVANNAH LIBRARY

Editor, Constitution: In looking over the books in the Savannah public library, in search for some book on southern literature, I came across a small book the title of which was "Songs of the South" by the late Frank L. Stanton, dedicated to the late Clark Howell, former editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

The "Songs of the South" is a great contribution to music and the literature of the south, and to the whole nation. It is a great pleasure to read the literature of southern authors, and especially the writing of the late Frank L. Stanton. E. S. FULLER.

WHY LET "STOP SIGNS" NARROW TRAFFIC LANE?

Editor, Constitution: Since the inception of the one-way traffic system I have been one of its best boosters.

Invariably, as requested by those most interested, I have kept in the left-hand lane to get through and invariably at each corner have met the same obstruction, namely a large stop sign which completely obstructs one complete lane of traffic.

In the case of more room, why not change the side of the street for parking to the left side, or change the signs to the side of the street.

Either one will provide one more additional or at least greater width to the lanes now in use. As it is hard to teach old dogs new tricks, why not park on the left so that those who insist on running down the right hand side will have that much more room.

CIVITAN DELEGATES.

DALTON, Ga., April 14.—Delegates elected by the Dalton Civitan Club to the Georgia Civitan convention to be held in Macon April 27-28 were announced today by President Tom Lambert as follows: Paul Fite Sr., L. A. Lee and Clark Jones, with William M. Sapp Sr., Phil Stone and John Neal Sr. as alternates.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Atlanta churches, including the suburban communities, are in the midst of a simultaneous evangelistic effort, beginning last Sunday and continuing through Sunday, April 27. It is, perhaps, the most inclusive evangelistic effort ever made by the churches of this community—more churches participating, and the most thorough-going spirit of co-operation on the part of all the denominations.

Nearly 200 churches are represented in this community-wide simultaneous evangelistic effort. Nationally famous ministers are here as guest preachers. Heartening co-operation on the part of the press, the public, and other agencies of publicity has helped tremendously in augmenting the effort.

An evangel is one who brings good news—the good news of the gospel. The gospel is the good news of the Son of God, best expressed, perhaps, in the words of the Lord Jesus Christ, when He said:

"For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3:16.

In another passage Jesus declares: "The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." Luke 19:10.

In the belief that all men are lost, and that all men may be saved, the faithful Christian seeks, through the leading of the Holy Spirit, to persuade all men to accept Jesus Christ as Saviour. "Whosoever will may come." "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." "By grace are ye saved, through faith, and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God." Ephesians 2:8.

The individual is competent to come direct to God, through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, repenting of sin and trusting Him for salvation. Salvation is by a Person, not by a creed or a sacrament or a church, and that Person is the Son of God who took upon Himself the iniquity of us all. Society will be saved when the individuals composing society are redeemed by the blood of Jesus.

This will be the good news of the evangelists in this community-wide effort, just as it will be the message of every faithful preacher of the gospel at all times and in all places. And it is the united prayer of the Christian people of this community that every man, woman and child will heed the good news, and some into the knowledge of the love of God. Then will they be the better prepared to meet the challenge of these disturbing days, and all the days. "My grace is sufficient for you," is the reassuring word of Jesus. God help us to believe it, and act on it.

Graves To Talk Federal Aid At Conference Solution Seen On Social Work To School Pay Author Will Address State Meeting on Economic Changes.

John Temple Graves II, widely known southern editor and author, will be the principal speaker at the 16th annual meeting of the Georgia Conference on Social Work to be held April 28-30 in Macon.

His subject will be "The South Faces Social and Economic Change: How Southerners Can Further the Democratic Ideal." Presiding over this meeting of the conference will be Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution.

The conference will open Monday night in First Presbyterian church of Macon when Dr. Mark A. May, of the Institute of Human Relations of Yale University, speaks on "The Challenge of the Present World Situation."

Miss Metta May Mitchell, executive secretary of the Atlanta Y. W. C. A., will speak at an open meeting on "Social Work's Dependence on a Responsible Citizenry." Also appearing on the panel will be Mrs. Edwin S. McCarty, president-elect of the Junior League of Atlanta, and Earl Lippincott, of the Atlanta Social Planning Council.

A panel discussion on the recent White House conference of "Children in a Democracy" will be held under the direction of Mrs. Albert M. Hill, director of the children's division of the State Department of Public Welfare. Mrs. C. R. McQuown, chairman of the child welfare committee of the American Legion Auxiliary, will speak.

Southern Educators Meet Here for Study of New Court Ruling.

Southern educators, facing the problem of equalizing salaries of white and Negro teachers, in compliance with a recent supreme court ruling, at their meeting here yesterday, decided that federal aid was the only solution to the problem.

In a prepared statement school superintendents and secretaries of education associations from 14 southern states said after the meeting:

"The passage of senate bill 1313 was approved as providing from federal sources the funds necessary to carry out the mandate of the federal courts."

Ralph Ramsey, executive secretary, Georgia Education Association and spokesman for the group, said the problem was to find the revenue with which to pay the same salaries to Negro and white teachers with equal qualifications.

At the same time, Ramsey said, southern educators already are faced with the problem of inadequate wages for white teachers, many of whom leave the teaching profession each year for better salaries in private business.

In a recent supreme court decision, the fourteenth amendment was interpreted to mean that states were required to maintain equal school facilities for Negro and white children, and pay equal salaries without regard to color.

Kennedy Quits Welfare Post

George C. Kennedy has resigned as assistant director of the State Department of Public Welfare, it was announced yesterday in the executive department.

Kennedy wrote Governor Talma his resignation was in conformity with a conference with Welfare Director B. S. Miller.

The assistant director said he planned to return to the practice of law at his home in Manchester. He has been assistant director since September 15, 1939. He joined the department in October, 1937.

No announcement of his successor was made.

Higher Liquor Tax Sought by Mayor

Mayor LeCraw said yesterday he will seek to increase the $500 yearly business license tax for sale of liquor and will ask council to establish a fee of $500 for transfer of liquor licenses from one operator to another or for moving a liquor store from one location to another.

The mayor will submit his proposal to city council's tax committee in time for inclusion in the new business license schedule in July.

The city now charges $500 a year for liquor licenses and has no transfer charge.

Russo Blanks Nats, 3-0, on 3 Hits in Major League Opener

BY JACK TROY

'Boom Town' NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 14.—Joe Engel was slightly misleading as to Chattanooga's actual opening day crowd, but there is nothing he can do or say about the score of the Nashville-Chattanooga second game Sunday. Officially, it's 25 to 1. It was just a seven-inning game, too. One shudders to think what the score might have been by the end of nine innings. There's another record for Engel—a 15-run inning for the opposition.

About that opening day crowd, Engel blandly announced to the press that it was 10,287. He failed to add that he had included 1,025 children. They see the games for less than 50 cents and are not included in the grand total. Actually, the total paid attendance was 8,996. Engel just didn't think that sounded as good as 10,287.

But they don't do things halfway at Chattanooga. They're either going to be the best or the worst. There's no happy medium.

Many more baseball games like Sunday's nightcap and they'll change the name of Chattanooga to "Boom Town."

Repartee Wirt Gammon, flushed by Chattanooga's success in the first two games, led with his typewriter in Sunday's Times. He had Joe Engel asking Fred Russell (Nashville Banner), "What kind of a team is Vanderbilt going to have next fall?"

A stockholder is said to have asked Engel, following the double-header, what kind of a baseball team Chattanooga's going to have NEXT season.

It also has been suggested that before the season is very old Chattanooga baseball writers may find it comforting to resort to a little vitamin V. O.

When Joe Engel said he was happy dopsters had picked Chattanooga to finish last, he wasn't kidding. He's always felt at home in the environment of a cellar.

Seek Cup Nashville fans, encouraged by the news that Chattanooga actually didn't have 10,000 on opening day, will turn out tomorrow to welcome the defending champions—and Atlanta—in a gala "cop-the-cup" opener in Sulphur Dell.

Vol followers definitely have a chance to win the Class B attendance trophy. They could win it with 9,000 paid admissions.

Last year, before the Vols had won their first pennant in 24 years, 7,866 were in the Dell for the initial game of the season.

Last time the Crackers were here for a Vol opener was 1938, and the Crackers won, 9 to 6. There was present that day a colorful crowd of 8,492.

Fans really turn out on occasions here. In 1932 there was an opening day throng of 14,402. There was just room enough left for the infielders. It was a case of every man for himself in the outfield.

The Vols and Crackers generally have been chosen to stage a one-two finish again, but not necessarily in that order.

Long Shot? Horsemen listening to Bill Stern's weekly broadcast are wondering today what he meant by saying the best Kentucky Derby long shot is Porter's Cap.

That's the year's most misleading statement. Odds on the Santa Anita Derby winner, Porter's Cap, are, in most winter books, listed at 6 to 1, which darned near makes him a favorite for the Ky. Derby. There are no standouts in the field.

Then, too, in a recent poll conducted by Frank Menke, 275 leading American turf writers selected Porter's Cap to win the Derby.

So don't take Stern seriously about Porter's Cap as a long shot. He must have been thinking about Porter Grant, an Auburn hot shot.

Army To Get Three Jacket Football Stars, Alex Reports

By TOM McRAE.

The Army is apt to dip heavily into the Georgia Tech football squad and grab off three of its stars before next season rolls around.

Coach W. A. Alexander said yesterday Red Muerth, senior tackle star, Carlton Lee, valuable reserve guard, and Dick Bates, tailback and the team's best passer, are likely to be in the Army by July 1.

He added that Little Johnny Bosch, who is a member of the Reserve Corps because of his training in the National Guard and at Georgia Military Academy, may also have to go.

The loss of Muerth, Lee and Bates, if and when it occurs, will be a serious blow to the Yellow Jacket football hopes. For the past two years, Muerth, a Chattanooga boy, has starred at his position in the line. Bates played about as much as Bosch at tailback last season and he was rapidly developing into a good ball carrier in addition to being a fine passer.

Lee, an old Tech High star, played tackle part of the season but was moved to guard and saw plenty of service.

The Yellow Jackets have completed their first week of spring practice and the weather suits Coach Alex, even though it is a bit more suitable for baseball than football.

Yesterday's session was comparatively light with the boys running around a bit to keep in condition. Tech is just through with Easter holidays.

Coach Alex said contact work was on schedule tomorrow.

Reds, Yankees Are Favorites In the Betting

Doyle Quotes Yanks at 7-5 With Indians Listed at 3-2.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees were made favorites for the National and American League pennant races today by Jack Doyle, nationally known Broadway price-layer.

He quoted the Yanks at 7 to 5 in the American League, with the Cleveland Indians on almost even terms at 3 to 2, while making the world champion Reds a 6-to-5 choice in the senior circuit compared to 9 to 5 quoted for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Both Detroit's defending American League champions and the St. Louis Cardinals in the National were rated third as 4-to-1 shots.

Doyle delayed his selections this year because of uncertainty about the effect of the Army draft.

His quotations follow:
American League: 1st 2nd 3rd
N. York 7-5 1-3 Cincinnati 6-5 1-3
Cleveland 3-2 5-3 Brooklyn 9-5 2-3
Detroit 4-4 1-3 St. Louis 4-4 1-3

Bullpup Rally Nips Charlotte In Ninth, 3 to 2

ATHENS, Ga., April 14.—Joe Gaston, former Boys' High star, hurled three-hit ball this afternoon as Georgia's freshman baseball team came from behind in the ninth inning to whip Central High school, of Charlotte, N. C., 3 to 2. It looked for a while as though Gaston's masterful twirling was going to waste, for the Charlotte lads had scored a run in the fifth on Karres' triple and a passed ball, adding another in the eighth when Holtzclaw hit a home run over the left field fence.

But in the eighth, after three other threats had been choked off by fine hurling of George Livingston, Charlotte southpaw, the Bull-dogs broke into on Clarke's triple and Boyd's fly to center. In the ninth, Oaks and Alsobrook walked, Gaston sacrificed them with a neat bunt, and both men scored when Little Audley Tucker singled sharply to left centerfield.

Travs Send Mustakis to Mound Against Birmingham.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Undefeated Atlanta, fresh from three straight wins over the luckless Knoxville Smokies, ties up today with Nashville, champion of the Southern association, in what may be the top game of the league's second-round "opening day."

Memphis, Little Rock and Knoxville, who started their seasons on the road, were back home today for their respective openers. The Chicks, who won two and lost one against Birmingham in the starting series, took on the undefeated New Orleans Pelicans, with an expected crowd of 10,000.

Atlanta's 14,286 fans topped the first-round opening day crowds, which totaled 33,790 in four cities. Chattanooga was second with 10,286, Birmingham third with 6,432, and New Orleans lagged far behind with a bare 2,735.

Memphis, with an expected crowd of 6,500, gave the opening day assignment to Lester Willis, while New Orleans designated Al Jurisich. Little Rock planned to use Alex Mustakis against Harry Johnson or Charles Barrett, of Birmingham, and Knoxville to use Irvin Steiner or Woody Johnson to oppose Chattanooga's veteran Dick Bass. An opening day crowd of 5,000 was forecast in Little Rock.

Should Greenberg go, he will definitely take with him the hopes of the Tigers for repeating their title triumph. A year ago, his big bat backed up some unexpectedly fine pitching to drive Detroit to the flag.

In Cleveland, hopes are high, now that the "battle of the bosses," or who's managing whom, is all over. Last year, the row between the players and Ossie Vitt was blamed for the Tribe's defeat in the pennant chase.

The Yankees are going to have more than a little bit to say. After four straight pennants and world championships, they slid to third last year, and the rebuilding was on over the winter. They've come up with a second base-shortstop duo of Gerry Priddy and Phil Rizzuto, which is heralded by some experts as the best in either league. Joe Gordon, the second base acrobat, is shifting over to first base, and the pitching staff has been bolstered.

The Boston Red Sox still need pitching, and their chances in the current race appear to lie in whether or not they're going to find any from among the throwers they've brought north from their training camp.

CHISOX STRONGER. Jimmy Dykes and his Chicago White Sox again look like the trouble makers for the first division hopefuls, and should be in there fighting for a first division berth.

Around St. Louis, the folks are high over the chances of the Browns, the only major league club which never has won a pennant.

The Senators and Philadelphia Athletics, as usual, resemble horses carrying too much weight. Cincinnati is the team to beat in the senior circuit. Although Billy Myers, short-fielder for the

Majors Open Season With Fingers Crossed

Shadow of War and Draft Mixes With Promise of Increased Gates From 'Fresh' Money Flow.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(P)—Major league baseball opens the 1941 season tomorrow with its fingers crossed.

The shadow of war, with the implication of such allied affairs as the draft and the "fresh" money circulating from the boom in defense industries, has major league moguls lifting the lid on the campaign with emotions running all the way from weary worry to gleeful optimism.

President Roosevelt touched off the fireworks today when he tossed his high, hard one to start the New York Yankees and Washington Senators off on the annual one-game "preview" in the national capital.

Tomorrow all 16 teams swing into action, before an expected total of about 227,000 fans, and the general impression is they'll start the kind of a season in which just about anything can happen—and probably will.

In these, the Cincinnati Reds, are favored to come up with their third straight National League flag, while the rebuilt "streamlined" Yankees and the Cleveland Indians, under the new leadership of Roger Peckinpaugh, figure to fight it out for the junior circuit championship.

BIG GAT'S LOOM. From all corners of the diamond globe come reports indicating everyone expects a big financial year for the national pastime. The dean of the diamond, Connie Mack, voiced the prediction "folks will be wanting to go to ball games and relax" as a result of the war tension, and that increased employment and freer circulation of money will provide the where-withal for them.

The threat of the Army draft, which already has clipped pitcher No. 1, Hugh Mulcahy, from the ranks of the lowly Phillies, hangs over every club. At the moment, the chief immediate blow would be to the defending American League champion Detroit Tigers if their ace clouter, big Hank Greenberg, is summoned for military duty.

Should Greenberg go, he will definitely take with him the hopes of the Tigers for repeating their title triumph. A year ago, his big bat backed up some unexpectedly fine pitching to drive Detroit to the flag.

In Cleveland, hopes are high, now that the "battle of the bosses," or who's managing whom, is all over. Last year, the row between the players and Ossie Vitt was blamed for the Tribe's defeat in the pennant chase.

Michigan Wins Golf Struggle From Tech 16-5

Ben Smith, of Wolverines Shoots 68, Yates 71 at Druid Hills.

Led by Ben Smith, who shot a 37-31—68, which is 4 under par, Michigan whipped Georgia Tech's golf team, 16 to 5, at Druid Hills yesterday afternoon. Smith, who won all three points from Dan Yates, had a 2-over-par 6 on one hole, and still got a 68. Yates fired a 71.

Only Bobby Thompson, of Tech, was able to do so well as break even with his opponent. Thompson shot a 76 to split his match with Fred Dannenfels, who had the same score.

In the other individual matches, Dynamite Goodloe, of Tech, who had a 75, lost two points and won one from Johnny Barr, who tallied a 73. George Sargent, of Tech, with a 78, lost all three points to Dave Ossler. Tim Crowley, of Tech, lost, 2 points to 1, to Bob Feil.

Yates and Thompson won one point in the team play while Sargent and Goodloe were taking a half point.

Capital City Golf Slate Announced

The Capital City Club's schedule of golf tournaments has been compiled. The slate opens with a Memorial Day tournament April 26. The schedule: President's and Governing Board Trophy—May 5-June 7. City Amateur—August 6-10. Club Championship—August 11-September 13. Ladies' State—June 23-27. Invitation—August 31-September 1.

Blind bogeys are scheduled each Saturday and Sunday, and there will be a prize each Saturday for the shot closest to the third pin.

Jersey City Gets Three Terrymen

NEW YORK, April 14.—(P)—The New York Giants today sent three players to their Jersey City International league farm, two on option and one outright.

The optioned players were Johnny McCarthy, who was their regular first baseman two years ago, and Jim (Buster) Maynard, rookie outfielder up from Richmond. Pitcher Red Lynn was sold outright.

35,000 Watch Yankees Win At Washington

New Yorkers Get Only Six Hits Off Leonard and Chase.

By JUDSON BAILEY.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(P)—New York's Yankees, opening the 1941 major league campaign before President Roosevelt and 32,000 sweltering, shirt-sleeved fans, smothered the Washington Senators, 3 to 0, today on the three-hit hurling of Marius Russo, their sophomore southpaw star.

Except for the score it was one of the most perfect, colorful curtain-raising that Washington folks, long inured to official pomp and ceremony, could remember.

The sun shown brightly, sending the temperature above 85, and warmed the fans who waited for hours in the bunting-decked steel and concrete stands of Griffith stadium.

The President arrived promptly 15 minutes before game time, was greeted by "Hail to the Chief" from the Army band and the cheers of the crowd. Then Vice President Wallace raised the American flag on the center field pole and the President threw out a new ball for his ninth pitch over a period dating back to 1917, when as assistant secretary of the Navy he subbed for President Wilson.

ROOKIE GETS IT. An unknown rookie pitcher, Arnold Anderson of the Washington club, came off the ground with the ball after players of both teams had scrambled in front of the White House box to catch it.

The confusion of the sideshow had barely subsided before the Bronx Bombers began their firing. Red Rolfe, second man up for New York, slammed Emil (Dutch) Leonard's knuckle ball for a single into right field. He was forced on the next play by Tom Henrich, but the latter got all the way to second as Shortstop Cecil Travis hit wild to first trying for a double play.

Then the ever-reliable Joe Di Maggio drove a tremendous triple into the right-center field corner to score the runner.

Leonard, who had baffled the Yanks in 1939 but who was beaten in six out of seven starts against them last season, managed to set his enemies wild in order for the next three stanzas.

DICKEY DOUBLES. But in the fifth and sixth they broke loose again for their other runs. In the fifth Bill Dickey doubled sharply to left center, and Pitcher Russo blasted a two-bagger that bounced against the granger wall in center field, 425 feet away, and scored Dickey.

The run in the sixth came on successive singles by Henrich and Di Maggio and a long fly to right by Charley Keller.

These six hits, all of which figured in the scoring, were all that Leonard allowed.

But the three hits Russo allowed were all singles and each in a different inning, so that he never was in danger. His teammates backed him up with three double plays, two of which he started himself. He gave three walks. Only twice in the entire game did Washington

Poindexter Faces Jeffcoat as Crackers Open at Nashville Today

Atlanta Seeks First Victory Over Vol Ace

Game Is First of 10 on Road for Richards' Team.

By JACK TROY.
Constitution Sports Editor.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 14.—With baseball interest reported at an all-time peak in this fog-famous metropolis, capital city of Tennessee, Atlanta and Nashville are expected to play before a crowd of 10,000 Tuesday afternoon.

George Jeffcoat, perennial jinx of the Atlanta club, has been selected to pitch the Nashville opener. He will be opposed by Jennings (Jinx) Poindexter, who may prove a tough lefty to all Southern League teams this season.

Oddly, both Jeffcoat and Poindexter pitched season openers. A Chattanooga rally in the ninth spoiled Jeffcoat's start. Poindexter, however, allowed Knoxville only five hits as he won handily.

SEEKS SECOND.

So Jeffcoat goes after his first victory and Poindexter seeks to establish an unusual record—two opening victories in the same season.

Last time the Vols saw Poindexter they didn't see what he was pitching very distinctly. The Jinx fanned 15—the last eight in a row. Poindexter wasn't in the form he's shown this spring, either. However, that strikeout performance was accomplished at night.

Day or night, Poindexter is expected to be the league's top left-hander this season. He is in his finest spring form and should get better as he goes along.

Get Flying Start.

The Crackers are off to a flying start in the Southern League race, with a clean sweep of the opening series with Knoxville. Nashville came to life to take both ends of a double-header and square the four-game opening series with Chattanooga.

The Vols also set a modern scoring record with 15 runs in one inning. They were in the greatest scoring spree in league history in winning a seven-inning game, 25 to 1.

Before the season opened the Vols claimed the best "everything," including pitching. But theirs is a weak claim when the Cracker pitching is considered.

THOMASIE HURT.

The Crackers claim better pitching, better catching and figure to be at least the equal of the Vols in all other departments. Peter Thomassie, midget center fielder, injured an ankle in a Monday workout and Buddy Bates returns to center field for the Vol opener.

Three games are scheduled here—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday—before the Crackers move on to resume hostilities with Knoxville in the Smoky park.

Charlotte Team Wins Net Meet

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 14.—(AP)—Central High, of Charlotte, won the first annual Dixie interscholastic tennis tournament today.

Central, by winning 11 matches in the round robin affair, topped West Palm Beach, Fla., which defeated Maury High, of Norfolk, Va., 4-3, today to take its ninth match.

The Charlotte team played Boys' High, of Atlanta, Ga., in the final event.

WELCOME CHIEF—James Silver (right) welcomes Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson to the federal and state wildlife meeting which opened here yesterday. Gabrielson is chief of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service with headquarters in Washington. Silver is southeastern regional director with offices in Atlanta.

Gabrielson Deplores Costly State Changes

Fish and Wildlife Service Chief Tells Conservation Conference Georgia and Nevada Are Only States Without Federal Aid.

By JOHN MARTIN.

The brass hats of wildlife in the southeast launched a three-day indoor tour of the flyways and game trails of this section yesterday at a downtown hotel.

Paced by Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, chief of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, close to 200 officials and their associates unbosomed themselves of every problem in the woods and fields and streams from the banding of birds to the propagation of wild boars, and then the shooting of these game species.

Officially the meeting is a joint conference of administrators and project leaders of Region 4 of the Fish and Wildlife Service and the Southern Association of Conservation Officials. It will continue through today and tomorrow and will be climaxed by a meeting of the board of directors of the Georgia Wildlife Federation here Thursday at noon.

HEAVY PROGRAM.

The wildlife brigade, under the direction of silver-haired Jim Silver, set some sort of a record in its opening sessions. Twenty-four speakers, all experts, went to bat and all of them dwelt on a different subject. They were limited to 10-minute talks and not a single man failed to spill a key-note to the nation's wildlife situation.

This was not enough wildlife and conservation, so a series of feature films topped off the program last night.

Dr. Gabrielson, a fellow who is credited with a great job of chasing the lethargy from conservation over the whole country, launched the program with a review of wildlife activity in the United States during the past five years.

Working close to home, Dr. Gabrielson deplored as costly and unjustified the wholesale turnover of conservation officials when state administrations change. Dr. Gabrielson said Oregon was an example of a state where wildlife personnel had been removed for political reasons, and replaced with untrained adherents of the new administration. Oregon is his native state.

OTHER SUBJECTS.

Governor Talmadge recently vetoed a bill which would have permitted Georgia to accept federal funds under this law, and match them with state money.

Three conservation leaders from Atlanta, in addition to Silver, contributed to the one-day wildlife laboratory. Art Schilling talked on game management for southeastern forests; Charlie Elliott explained wildlife educational needs and programs; and Clint Davis talked on "organizing for wildlife support."

Others appearing on the program and their subjects were: A. M. Pearson, Alabama Co-operative Research Program; Sam Crosthwait, Drainage Control Investigation; G. C. Leach, Fish Culture, Distribution and Management; H. W. Terhune, Role of CCC in Wildlife Conservation; Harold Blakey, Turkey Perpetuation Proposals; Fred Barkalov, Game Census Methods in Alabama; W. F. Dearness, Beaver Stocking in Mississippi; W. K. Krummes, Wildlife Refuge Program; W. W. Bell, Service Research Program; Al Day, Federal Aid and AAA Programs; Ross Stevens, Farm Game Program in North Carolina; W. E. Crouch, Game Law Enforcement; Jack Leavens, Land Use for Game Management; Frederick C. Lincoln, Migration, Banding and Inventories; O. L. Meehan, Fish Management in Southeastern Streams and Ponds; Fred Ruff, Deer Management in the Southern Appalachians; W. E. Ritter, Predator Control in Game Management; and Stacey Denham, Fish Market News Service.

Movies included Fisheries Pictures by Charles E. Jackson; Region 4 Refuge Scenes by W. J. Gregson; Arkansas Wildlife by Dave Graves; and Kellogg Bird Sanctuary by Dr. Miles Pirnie.

Georgia Seeks 2d of Season Over Clemson

Sikes Seeks Ferguson Against Tigers at Sanford Field.

ATHENS, Ga., April 14.—Georgia's hard-hitting baseball team planned to go after its second victory of the season over Clemson College Tuesday afternoon on Sanford Field at 3:30 o'clock.

Coach J. V. Sikes, tremendously pleased with the performances of his club in winning two games from Auburn over the past weekend, said he would start young Bill Ferguson, a righthander, against Clemson tomorrow.

Ferguson hasn't seen much action this year, but he has shown promise in practice and has been improving steadily since first reporting.

The Bulldog mentor said he would also use hard-hitting Van Davis at first base instead of Jimmy Skipworth, who held down the position in both Auburn games. Emmett Lyons, a left-handed hitter, likely will do the catching.

Remainder of Georgia's lineup will be the same as usual, with Charley Anderson on second; "Nub" Welch, short; Bobby Moore at third; Dan Kirkland in left; Roy Chatham in center; and Joe Kilian in right.

Georgia beat Clemson in Clemson last week, 12 to 7.

Smithies Play Marist; Purple Meets G. M. A.

Tech High will clash with Marist and Boys High tangles with G. M. A. this afternoon in Big Seven diamond contests.

The Smithies will invade the Ivy Street ballpark for their joust with the Cadets, and the Purples will be host to the College Park Soldiers at Grady Field. Both games begin at 3:30 o'clock.

Commercial draws a bye today, and at Columbus the Jordan High and Columbus nines mix in an intracity battle.

G. M. A. will play their first league game, cadet inspection and spring holidays having delayed their debut for two weeks. The Cadets will go against the offerings of Charlie Smith, Shorty Doyal's chief moundman, at Marist Mike Dorsch, of the Smithies, will oppose Lee Pierce.

Mangan's Noble Lady Wins in Kennel Show

J. B. Brennan's English setter, Mangan's Noble Lady, captured first place among the American bred bitches at the Atlanta Kennel Club show Sunday. Through error it was reported that Lady placed second.

Arnold Blum and Winston Huff, playing No. 1 and 2 for Georgia, won three points to pace Georgia's victory. Elliott Waddell, of Georgia, won two points and dropped one, while Jimmy Mason, of Georgia, won 2½ and dropped only ½.

BOBBY III TO MAKE TOURNAMENT DEBUT

Bobby Jones III will make his tournament debut in Chattanooga at the annual Southern Prep and High School meet.

Young Bob, who is larger than his father right now, has been playing golf for several years. Weighing in the neighborhood of 190 pounds, he looks as if he's about six feet tall and capable of knocking a golf ball a long way.

He can, from what Bob said once when I asked him about his son.

"He hit the ball a long way, all right. He hits it a long way getting to the green and he still hits it a long way after he gets there."

In words to the effect, the former Emperor of Golf explained his son's game. In other words, like most young golfers, Bobby is a distance hitter. Later, if he follows the course of golfers everywhere, he'll start sacrificing distance for accuracy.

Young Bob was down at Augusta for the Masters'. Dick Garlington was listening to his story of a

Prep Bowlers From Atlanta In Big Tourney

Tech High, Boys' High Seen as Threats in National Meet.

Next Saturday, April 19, at 11 a. m. the Baltimore doubles team will officially open the National Duck Pin Congress' 14th annual bowling tournament. This year Atlanta outbid many other larger cities for this great attraction and the people of the city are arranging their plans to include many visits to watch the stars of the United States in action.

Among the entries from Atlanta are many high school teams, chief among them being Tech High and Boys' High. Tech High has a fine team, captained by Jack Enlow, with many strong bowlers. Boys' High, directed by that incomparable organizer, J. J. Kelly, is also entered. Either one of these teams are capable of winning the United States high school championship and Atlanta is depending on them to lead the team to the title.

The through when the chips are down. In last year's tournament, the Derby High school from Derby, Conn., won the boys' high school championship with a score of 1,737 for the three games. This team received a beautiful trophy and each boy on the team received a medal emblematic of their prowess on the maple lanes. For the girls' high schools, the Staples High school, of Westport, Conn., carried away the honors with a score of 1,412. Atlanta has plenty of girls' teams that are capable of topping that score and their entries are to be filed this coming week, after decision has been reached as to the method of selecting the participants.

These high schools will compete strictly against other high schools in a class all their own. They will also have a boys' and girls' division for entrants under 15 years of age, as of January 1, 1941, each given separate and competing in singles only. Another class is for juniors not over 18 years of age as of January 1, 1941.

All high school entrants are required to pay only 60c per event to compete; that is, 60c for each member of a team and 60c for the singles.

Georgia Golfers Wallop Florida

ATHENS, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Georgia's golf team, defeated only one team this season last week in the Southeastern Conference championship, trounced the University of Florida, 15 to 3, today.

Arnold Blum and Winston Huff, playing No. 1 and 2 for Georgia, won three points to pace Georgia's victory. Elliott Waddell, of Georgia, won two points and dropped one, while Jimmy Mason, of Georgia, won 2½ and dropped only ½.

Pitching is the vital test. In the National League the Reds have a big hop with Walters, Derrier, Thompson, Moore, Turner, Vander Meer, Pearson and one or two others. They get the call with something to spare. It is the best pitching staff in either league, while the Dodgers, Cardinals and others are still on the highly speculative side.

In the American League Cleveland has the call, with something to spare. Bob Feller is the equal of two good pitchers. Minner and Smith are both effective. So is Mel Harder.

Feller should be good for 30 victories this season, if permitted to finish out before the draft net arrives.

The Tigers can bank on first-class pitching, headed by Buck Newsom, and pitching will always give them a chance, hooked with the club's run-making power.

The Best Hitting.

The American League still has a decided edge over the National when it comes to the well-known mace, often known as bludgeon and bat.

The National has no powerhouse entries to match Greenberg, DiMaggio, York, Ted Williams, or Jimmy Foss—barring only Johnny Mize of the Cardinals.

The Tigers can offer Greenberg, York and McCoskey. The Yankees DiMaggio and possibly Keller, Gordon and Rizzuto. Boston puts in with Williams, Foss, Cronin, Dom DiMaggio, Tabor and one or two more.

I'd give Boston the call in segregation.

The Spotlight

By GRANTLAND RICE.
(North American Newspaper Alliance.)

HIGH-RANKING ARGUMENTS

The dull roar of the base hits has started in another pennant season that happens to be loaded with the normal output of "ifs" and arguments.

What team has the best infield? The best outfield? The best pitching staff? The hardest hitting? These debates have been under way for the last two weeks. It's a public brawl where anyone can butt in and speak his piece. Later on the box score may scramble up a lot of these opinions, with even later rebuttals in order.

The Best Infields.

The best infield in the National League belongs to Cincinnati's Reds.

McCormick, Frey, Joost, Mattick and Werber. McCormick is the league's best first baseman and the others can hold up their part of the scramble.

Cleveland has a slight jump in the American, with the Yankees crowding Peck's Indians all the way.

Mack and Boudreau give Cleveland a slight edge on known form, but the Yankees face seasonal possibilities in Gordon, Priddy, Rizzuto and Rolfe. The difference here should be slight, but known form is safer than an April guess.

The Tiger infield is another gamble, due to the playing ages of Gehring and Bartell, but it is still a better defensive infield than the Red Sox can show. The Red Sox inner guard is defensively spotty and uncertain, the softest spot on the club.

The Best Outfield.

What about the outfield roundup—Greenberg and McCoskey head a powerful Tiger trio, but I'll string with the Yankee cast that includes DiMaggio, Keller, Selkirk and Henrich.

No one can blame the Red Sox for disputing this statement with two such stars as Ted Williams and Dom DiMaggio. The Red Sox are close enough to be given a draw, although the all-round brilliance of Joe DiMaggio opens up a gap.

There is no great difference in the outfield strength of Reds, Dodgers and Cardinals in the National.

For all things needed I'd say the Cardinals have the call, if you include both defensive and offensive strength, which happens to belong.

Larry MacPhail and Leo Durocher put their Dodger cast well in front. Medwick and Gordon should be two of the best. Paul Waner is still an all-season gamble, looking back over the years he has known.

Pitching is the vital test. In the National League the Reds have a big hop with Walters, Derrier, Thompson, Moore, Turner, Vander Meer, Pearson and one or two others. They get the call with something to spare. It is the best pitching staff in either league, while the Dodgers, Cardinals and others are still on the highly speculative side.

Derby Nags Get Bad Beatings at Havre De Grace

Madigama Captures Featured Handicap; Clyde Tolson Third.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 14.—(AP)—Kentucky Derby candidates took a rear-end kicking around as Havre de Grace's spring race meeting began today, but Madigama, a three-year-old gelding eligible for Pimlico's rich Preakness Stakes, came through with a thrilling victory in the featured Havre handicap.

Madigama, owned by the Brandywine Stable and ridden by the cagey Nick Wall, outstayed Howard Bruce's "old man," Jay Jay, who won the race "way back" in 1936, in a head-to-head stretch battle to win the $5,000-added feature in a photo-finish and take down the victor's purse of $4,425.

E. K. Bryson's sprinter, Clyde Tolson, almost equally favored with Madigama by the opening day crowd of 15,000, was ninth in the field of seven and Arnold Hanger's Big Stakes, a Kentucky Derby eligible, wound up next to last. It was the first start of the season for Big Stakes.

Madigama, off in front and never headed, barely lasted under Jay Jay's courageous challenge in the homestretch and marked up a time of 1:11 1-5 for the six furlongs. The gelded son of Gino and Sun Dancer returned $6.70 for $2 win tickets.

Hard-luck horse of the day was Mrs. Louis Palladino's Little Beans, a highly regarded derby eligible, who was beaten by Guy Bedwell's Son Altess in the mile and a sixteenth Preakton Handicap. Little Beans got into almost every kind of trouble that could befall a horse and in addition was given a mediocre ride by Sterling Young, the same jockey that rode Big Stakes.

E. K. Bryson's filly, Cis Marion, a Derby eligible, also put on a great show of gameness in the six-furlong Belair purse. She was just nosed out by G. C. Greer's Cape Cod in a photo-finish after a determined bid.

Another highly regarded derby eligible, Mrs. J. L. Furr's Don Orlean, was a poor sixth in the field of nine in the same race.

MAON PEACHES

Get Tulsa Battery

Macon, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—The Macon Peaches have obtained William Shubel, right-hand pitcher, and Edward Droege, catcher, from the Tulsa Oilers.

The club announced all games would be open to military forces for the minimum charge of 40 cents, which entitles soldiers and sailors to grandstand seats.

Four Umps Added In Georgia-Florida

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—There are four newcomers to the umpiring staff of the Georgia-Florida League this year.

President A. D. Walker, of the circuit, said they would be Don Streets, Altoona, Kan.; Kenneth Day, Huntingtonburg, Ind.; Gus Hanke, Newburg, Ore., and J. W. Tyson, Benetsville, S. C.

He said four arbiters who served last season would also work again this year: Byron Alexander, New Richmond, Ind.; C. V. Varble, Louisville, Ky.; Don Atkinson, Altoona, Kan., and C. C. Forrest, Fulton, Ky.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Raise Workers 10 Cents Per Hour

Action Averts Walkout Planned Tonight; Increase in Prices Forecast; Perkins Confers With Principals in Soft Coal Deallock.

By The Associated Press
According to CIO demands, the nation's two biggest steel producers—United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel—boosted wages 10 cents an hour yesterday and Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, and Otis Steel quickly fell into line.

Directly, the action meant the addition of $4 to the weekly pay envelopes of more than 400,000 workers. Indirectly, it may mean similar increases for 600,000 or more other workers in manufacturing and fabricating concerns which, in the past, have matched the pace set by "Big Steel."

Price Increase?

There was no immediate word as to whether the wage increase would be followed by a boost in the price of steel—and a consequent increase in the cost of the defense program. The general view in Pittsburgh steel circles, however, was that a price increase was inevitable if higher coal costs were heaped on top of the wage increase.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Labor Perkins entered deallocked soft coal wage negotiations personally last night, but declined to say what she would tell management and union negotiators. She walked into the night session between northern Appalachian bituminous operators representing 35 per cent of the country's production and the United Mine Workers of America (CIO).

With the increase, the basic minimum wage in the major steel concerns became 72 1-2 cents an hour.

United States Steel's action averted the threat of a walkout in its vast industrial empire, originally ordered by the CIO Steel Workers' Organizing Committee for midnight tonight.

It included the increase in a new contract with the SWOC which granted various concessions but not the union's demands for a checkoff of union dues and recognition as exclusive bargaining agent for all employees.

TCI Gives Raises.

In Birmingham, Robert Gregg, president of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, announced an agreement with the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee which provided a 10-cent-an-hour increase in wages for approximately 17,000 workers in TCI manufacturing units.

Meanwhile, the American Federation of Labor met with defiance a plan to admit only CIO members into plants of TCI.

The muddled situation in the coal contract negotiations appeared to be unchanged. Southern operators, walking out of the conferences, have offered an increase of 11 per cent over the present southern scale of $5.60 a day.

The pinch in coal supplies due to the work stoppage by some 400,000 miners since April 1 began to be felt.

Six Firms Buy Housing Bonds Of $2,180,000

More Than Required Minimum of 10 Per Cent Sold.

City of Atlanta housing bonds totaling $2,180,000 were awarded to bond companies yesterday by the Atlanta Housing Authority as its share of the financial burden to construct six projects in the city area.

The Authority is required to sell at least 10 per cent of the cost of the total projects. The Atlanta Authority sold more than 10 per cent of the $18,200,000 needed to build the six projects, but gave them 20-year maturity instead of 10-year maturity dates.

The bonds were sold at a bid of 2.3865 per cent and bought by Goldman Sachs & Co., of New York City, along with five Atlanta associates: Wyatt, Neal & Wagoner; Brook-Tindall Co.; Wayne Martin Co.; Norris & Hirschberg, and Courts & Company.

The six housing projects which will be financed by the bonds and federal contributions are Clark Howell Homes, John Hope Homes, State Capitol Homes, G. & A. Homes, John J. Egan Homes and the Alonzo Herndon Homes.

Child Training Urged To Save Democracy

Three-Day P.-T. A. Convention Gets Under Way in Macon.

MACON, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Addressing the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. William Kletzer, of Portland, Ore., national P.-T. A. president, called upon teachers and parents here tonight to safeguard democracy for the future through the proper training of children in the school and in the home.

Mrs. Kletzer spoke at the second general session of the annual convention of the Georgia congress, which opened this morning and will continue through Wednesday. At this afternoon's opening business session, a certificate of life membership in the national organization was awarded to Mrs. Robert A. Long, of Atlanta, president of the state group, for her "outstanding services" during the past year. The presentation was made by Mrs. Joseph Mendes, of Savannah, first vice president of the state body.

Addresses of welcome were given by Mrs. E. P. Findlay, president of the Macon-Bibb County P.-T. A. unit, and Walter P. Jones, local city-county school superintendent. Mrs. Mendes responded for the state organization.

Reports were submitted to the convention by Mrs. Long; Mrs. G. A. Rarver, chairman of the local credentials committee; Mrs. Charles D. Center, chairman of the committee on budgets; Mrs. Bruce Carr Jones, chairman of the committee on organization rules; and Mrs. J. C. Owen, second vice president.

Today's program also included sessions of the executive committee and of the board of managers, a tea at Wesleyan conservatory, an automobile tour of the city and the council presidents' dinner, at which Mrs. Mendes was hostess.

At tonight's meeting Mrs. Long and Mrs. Owen presided, with Mayor Charles L. Bowden extending the official greetings of the city to the delegates.

Principal speaker tomorrow will be Dr. Harold D. Meyer, dean of the school of sociology of the University of North Carolina.

Young Farmers Agog as Steers Await Judging

Fat Cattle Show, Sale Brings Big Moment for 200 Youths.

The big black beeves with the blocky bodies have come back to the barns again.

The great red steers with the shiny coats that swirl in curls like a small boy's cowlick, are ready to go into the judging ring.

The fat calves with the milk bloom still on them are ready for the show, stubby horns polished, hooves shined, coats burnished by many brushings till they gleam like mirrors in the sun.

In short, the sixth annual Fat Beef Cattle Show and Sale, sponsored by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the Cherokee Livestock Association, is ready to begin at the stockyards and 200 youngsters of the Georgia 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers organization are in a dither of excitement.

Judging Starts Early.

It's the big day for them, for the animals shown are mostly theirs. They've grazed them in deep pastures all this year. They've stall-fed them all they could stuff down during the last few weeks to put the last ounce of fine meat upon their square-cut frames. And finally, they've hauled them to town and given them one last polishing before they enter the judging ring.

The judging starts this morning. By this afternoon many winners in many classes and one big winner, the grand champion of the show, will have been chosen. Then the fun starts. The grand champion will come to town, in company with his proud small-boy owner, to go on display at Five Points so that city folk can get a glimpse of what kind of beef Georgia can raise when it sets its mind to it.

From 3:30 to 5 o'clock he'll be on view there, when he will be led, with stately tread, up the street to the Ansley hotel, and he will again go on display at the annual banquet at which members of the chamber entertain the boys who bring in their cattle.

Big Day for Youths.

This is a big event for these youngsters. It's probably as great as high school graduation and even greater than the annual Sunday school picnic. For they're here to vie for honors in the show, to have a good time, and to make some money, which, incidentally, is no minor consideration, because many of them already have planned how they'll spend this money their calves bring. Some will use it to go to college—the older ones. Others have planned to buy a brood sow and raise some pigs in addition to their cattle next year. And, of course, the feminine members of the group have spotted some gowns along Peachtree.

But the use of their money was not their greatest consideration yesterday. They were busy grooming their stock so they possibly would take home some ribbons in addition to their ultimate purchases.

Form of Home Work.

You could see miriads of activities around the Blackwell Commission Company at 1030 Marietta street. More new shiny overalls, buttons than you ever saw in one group, together with new hats, battered suitcases and sacks. Some older members ventured into a near-by refreshment stand and bought a few cigars—or a few plugs of chewing tobacco. For this is a real holiday.

In a way they feel as though it's a form of home work. All have grown these steers in conjunction with their school work either through 4-H or Future Farmers of America organizations.

When the day is done they don't go down to the Atlanta hotels made available for their use. At least very few of them do. They curl up on an old crocus sack beside the hay trough and there they spend their night dreaming of the laurels the day will bring—or all the things their auction money will buy. Little Charlie Mathis, in the accompanying photograph, is a typical enthusiast.

ACCEPTS PASTORATE.
HOGANSVILLE, Ga., April 14. The Rev. W. M. Johnson, of Carroll, Ill., has accepted the pastorate of the Highland Baptist church. He is a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute and has been engaged in evangelistic work for several years.

"TO NEGLECT DEFENSE IS TO INVITE DISASTER"

All-American Task

RIGHT in the forefront of the vast defense task that faces the country is the vital need to bring the greatest effort of the greatest number swiftly to bear on the problems at hand.

That this is already happening is clear from a glance into the more than 35 General Motors plants where defense production is the Number One job.

Here you see mobilized the effort not merely of a single organization but of literally hundreds of businesses large and small teaming up smoothly together to provide the speed the program needs.

In the defense production of one GM division, 50 outside machine shops are sharing in the work.

In another, parts are secured from 83 outside suppliers, while raw materials come from 37 other sources.

In still a third case, more than half of the dollar volume represented by existing defense contracts will go to other companies for supplies—companies scattered over seven Middle West states.

Even the GM-developed Allison aircraft engine is built of materials, parts and sub-assemblies drawn from suppliers in 65 communities scattered from Clarinda, Iowa in the west, to Hartford, Conn. in the east.

This procedure is not strange to anyone familiar with the normal workings of American industry.

It is this breaking up of big jobs into little ones, the spreading of mighty tasks over many shoulders, that is the secret of American efficiency and industrial might.

Certainly the great task of preparing for national defense is not a task delegated merely to a few or undertaken only by a handful. It is a task in which the whole country is already taking part, and one in which the whole country will participate—in steadily enlarging measure.

Easy-to-Fix Foods Save Time for Fun

Macaroni with deviled salmon is a main dish which can be prepared in a few minutes.

By Sally Saver.

Warm, clear days and gentle breezes announce that spring is here. The world is vibrantly alive, as new green leaves and yellow dandelions popping out all over the lawn show. To miss any of the bright, fast-changing scene seems a shame, and most of us try to spend as much time as possible out-of-doors working in the garden, putting on the golf lawns or just being outside.

Foods that can be prepared quickly, leaving long afternoons free, are much in demand. Such a dish that will form the basis of an evening's meal in short order is cooked macaroni with deviled salmon. The combination of the two flavors, macaroni with deviled salmon, gives a delightful savoriness.

Macaroni With Deviled Salmon
1 tablespoon butter.
2 teaspoons prepared yellow mustard.

1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
Dash black pepper.
1 medium can cooked macaroni with cheese.

Drain, then break salmon in small pieces. Combine butter, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper and heat well. Add salmon and continue heating until salmon is heated through. Heat macaroni over hot water, and when hot place on platter. Pour deviled salmon in center of macaroni. Serves five.

The macaroni can be combined with many meats, fish or vegetables in a variety of attractive ways, and is good to use with some left-overs for a new flavor. Questions about recipes, foods or service will be answered by Sally Saver. Call WA. 6565 or write in care of The Constitution.

'Cures' for Constipation Often Cause Anemia

By Dr. William Brady.

It seems evident, from the comments of correspondents, that there is still much misunderstanding of blood poisoning.

The most common use of the term is to signify septicemia—that is, invasion of the entire body by disease germs via the blood stream. This occurs as a complication or consequence of injury, wound, operation or possibly some trifling scratch, puncture, sting, pimple or abscess. The most familiar symptoms of such blood poisoning are general malaise or wretched aching feeling as though coming down with grip, chilliness or actual chill and feverishness supervening.

Of course any poison that may be taken internally, inhaled or otherwise absorbed poisons the blood as it poisons every other tissue in the body. A great many ill-advised people constantly or frequently take poisons that are destructive to blood corpuscles, in the form of dope purporting to cure headache, fatigue, worry or what have you. The analgesic or pain or sensation-numbing ingredient of such dope is usually one of the coarser derivatives, all of which are more or less destructive to red corpuscles, injurious to the heart and interfere with the oxygen-carrying function of the hemoglobin.

There is no such thing as blood poisoning of any kind from dye, veridigris, rust or similar substance getting in a wound. The old superstition of lockjaw from puncture or scratch by a rusty nail was pure superstition or fancy. The lockjaw, if it occurs after such wound or injury, is always due to infection of the wound by the tetanus bacillus, and a nail is as likely to carry tetanus bacilli into a wound if the nail is bright and new as it is if rusty.

There is an impression among those who delve in the literature of quackery that "poisoning by toxic wastes" and "auto-intoxication," meaning absorption of waste matter from the intestine, is a cause of anemia. There is no scientific basis for this morbid notion. It is the invention of charlatans—medical or otherwise—who hoped to sell more physic to the wiseacres of America by keeping the poor goofs worried about that. I present the physiological truth about this in the booklet "The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene," and anyone may have a copy on request if he incloses 10 cents coin and a stamped envelope bearing his address. But I decline to debate the matter. Either accept my view or reject it, but you can't tell me anything about it. Only a physician can do that, and no wiseacre is a physiologist—if he were he couldn't be such a goof. Unquestionably constant or prolonged exposure to air slightly polluted with carbon monoxide may cause anemia.

I'll admit that many victims of the constipation habit are anemic, but the physics they take cause the anemia, not the constipation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Tin.
Minute particles of the tin are likely to get in the food when one opens a can with a can opener. Are these particles of metal dangerous or poisonous if swallowed with the food? MISS M. E. A.

Answer—No.
Tea.
Is there any food nourishment in tea? Or is it useful only as a beverage? W. A.

Answer—No, except the nutritive value of sugar, milk or cream or lemon juice if any of these are taken in tea.
Gold.
Course of gold sodium thiosulfate injections stopped progress of my tuberculosis several years ago. Would like to try another course, but my present doctor can find no information on its use. Please don't tell me of the advantage of a sojourn in a sanatorium. I spent four years in one and have never ceased to regret it. E. H.

Answer—On his request I'll give your doctor names of pharmaceutical houses supplying gold sodium thiosulfate for intravenous injection. I know of no convincing evidence of its remedial value.
Iodine and Vitamins.
If one is taking iodine and vitamins at the same time would the iodine in the stomach neutralize or nullify the effect of vitamins? L. E. L.

Answer—No.

MY DAY: Navy Yard Visit Proves Interesting

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.—It seems as though I were covering a good deal of ground these days. On Friday I had the pleasure of meeting for a few minutes Mr. Darrell Brown, the young artist who won a prize offered by Mr. Isaac Liberman, president of Arnold Constable Company, for painting a portrait of me in the dress I wore on inauguration day. I thought I had never seen him and, since I am not particularly interested in portraits of myself, I think I must have seemed a rather unsatisfactory subject. This, however, is a portrait of the dress. I was interested to learn that I had met Mr. Brown some years ago in Iowa, and was glad to be able to show him the Lincoln portrait in the state dining room, which he liked as much as we do.

In the evening, I took the train for Boston and arrived there yesterday morning with my brother to attend the wedding of my young namesake, Eleanor Roosevelt. After breakfast at the Statler with some of my brother's friends, our son John, sent a car for us and my brother, and we went down to the Navy yard where Franklin Jr. met us and the destroyer on which he is serving. It was all most interesting and I was glad to meet some of his brother officers.

Franklin Jr. was off duty by lunch time, so we all had lunch together at Johnny and Anne's apartment. Johnny was one of the ushers at the wedding and, as usual, he was most efficient. We went out to Mrs. John Cutler's house in the time to see all the wedding party being photographed on the lawn, and to look at all the wedding presents.

Then we went to the church where my brother joined me and I think we all felt that it was a charming ceremony. The young people looked very happy and sweet and the sun shone upon them. One cannot help feeling that plans for the future are very uncertain where young people are concerned these days, but this has been the case before and it is good that they have the courage to start their lives and lead them as normally as they possibly can. They can not escape anxiety and perhaps it will have to be borne separately instead of with each other, but that, too, has come to youth in periods of crisis. I pray that we, who are older, may be able to help them during this difficult time.

I was very sorry that, on account of cancellation of my plane back last night from Boston to Washington, I had to take a train and miss the Easter sunrise service at the Unknown Soldier's tomb, conducted by the Knights Templar. This is the first time, since coming to Washington, that I have missed this service.

Slip Covers Make Rooms Cool, Clean
From hot and stuffy to cool and summery—that's the magical change a new slip cover works for a chair.

You can make a cover easily yourself the pin-on way, using your chair as a pattern, and the family budget won't even notice it! Here's the easy pin-on trick by which you can cover any chair or sofa. Simply remove the cushion and smooth a width of fabric down front of back and over seat, allowing a four-inch tuck-in between them. Pin along lines of the upholstery and cut 1-2 inches outside pins for seams. In the same way you fit arms, sides and back. For the cushion and arm-front sections you might first cut paper patterns. Now take off the pinned-up cover, baste and try on for adjustments. Your last step is to finish seams with binding or welting and add the flounce. Presto, a new chair!

Suspicious Wife Spends Her Time Looking for Little Troubles in a Big Way

By DIXIE GEORGE.

(An Atlanta woman conducts this column of friendly counsel. Her cheerful, sympathetic and logical advice is available to any reader of The Constitution in helping to solve bothersome problems of heart and home. Another person's opinion is valuable and often necessary as the guide to a sensible decision. Dixie George offers the real service of a real friend. Send your letters to her and she will give her advice in this column. Your name will be held in confidence. Write Dixie George, care The Constitution.)

Dear Dixie:

I don't know what is the matter with me, but I have a problem that is worrying me to death. My husband works at night and because of this I am becoming very suspicious of him. He has not given me any reason to believe that there is anything wrong, but I cannot help wondering. I wonder just why it is his work keeps him so late—he never leaves the office until 2 o'clock in the morning, he says. Do you suppose he just tells me that so he can run around with other women?

Several times I have tried to check on him, where is it and what he is doing, but the more I investigate the more worried I become. If I call the office, sometimes he is not there. One night I went down town to see if his car was in the parking lot, and it wasn't there. I nearly went wild. When I came home I asked him about it, and he told me I had a lot to do coming down to check on him in the first place, and in the second place, may be the car went off by itself. He was very sarcastic about it. What do you think I should do?

SUSPICIOUS WIFE.

I think you are wasting a lot of time over nothing and are poisoning your mind with unfounded ideas. The sooner you stop thinking your husband is being deceitful the better off you will be. What if he wasn't at the office when you called? That didn't mean he was out having dinner with another woman did it? And suppose the car wasn't at the parking lot? Parking lots, even at night, have a capacity business, so maybe he parked somewhere else or even on the street. Another thing, what do you suppose your husband would take a night job for if he intended to have a roving foot? It certainly would be foolish. If he wanted to rove, he would work in the day and rove at night. Have you considered how degrading it would be if he found out about your little sleuthing trips? Why will you lower yourself to "check" on him? If he wants to run around, he will, and there is little you can do about it. Even at that, if he is running, some "kind friend" will tell you.

Dear Dixie:

For over a year I have been corresponding with a boy out of the state whom I have never seen. We were just pen pals and nothing more. In his letter he wrote that he was engaged and would be married some time in May.

On Christmas I gave him a large picture of myself and he gave me a picture of himself, because we had never seen each other. Mother thinks now that he is marrying I

Wig Solves Problems of Male Hair Styles in Pictures

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, April 15.—Madeleine Carroll is the most restless star in Hollywood. She has a beautiful house at the beach, but do you think she lives there between pictures? No, she goes to New York, Florida, Bermuda, anywhere just to be on the move. Now I understand she is making plans for a tour of South America. She had been going to Spain to sell her castle there, but that plan has been shelved until the end of the war. She is still in love with her French aviator, Count de la Roziere, and their marriage depends on the termination of the war. Madeleine's next film, with Bob Hope, is not due to start for several months. So it looks as though we will not be seeing her for a while in Hollywood.

Thomas Mitchell is wearing a wig in "Gentle People," but not for the same reason as Messrs. Fred Astaire, Charles Boyer and Brian Donlevy. Mr. Mitchell's hair is not too scanty, but too long. His next role is Benjamin Franklin, which he will play the day after finishing "Gentle People." So he had to start growing his hair to near-shoulder length a couple of months ago. He pins up his hair under the wig for the modern picture.

Linda Darnell wanted to decrease the height between Mickey Rooney and herself, so she recently wore no-heel sandals for a date. "I can't take you out looking like a little girl," said Mickey, who ordered her back into adult shoes.

Taking Exercises When Energy Is Highest Makes Routines Easier

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you do all your own housework, you don't feel much like romping through a daily dozen. What's more, you don't even think of yourself as needing exercise and any suggestion that you do is apt to be countered with the retort that "that may apply to some housewives, but not to me!"

But housework does not keep you in shape or in condition. The muscles which are usually the least involved in household tasks are those most important to health and figure—the four pairs of abdominal muscles that are the sole support of the internal organs. You have no supporting bony structure in this area.

To make matters worse, you have to contend with gravity. You have to resist its constant downward tug. When your muscular girdle is allowed to go flabby, gravity is easily the winner. So even though you skip the rest of the daily dozen, make it a point to do a few special exercises every day to keep this vitally important group in tone. You will find that a regular program of this type keeps you in shape and condition and gives you more energy.

In exercising, take advantage of your high energy levels. The best time is around 10 or 11 o'clock in the morning. But if this hour is out of the question, catch your second high energy level at 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Start with this basic position in which all possibility of strain is obviated:

Lie on the back on the floor with the knees flexed and the soles of the feet on the floor near the buttocks. Pull up and in with the abdominal muscles and push the small of the back down flat against the floor. Hold for a second, relax slowly, and repeat 10 times.

From that position, you can go on to other excellent girdle conditioners as the following:

As you pull up and in with the lower muscles, flex alternate knees to chest. Relax between times, but continue 10 counts.

From same position, knees flexed, feet on floor, and keeping small of back on floor, twist sharply at waist and, holding knees together, touch alternate thighs to floor. This tones waist and stomach muscles.

Graduate to more difficult exercise by exercising with feet elevated on chair seat. From this position, raise hips off the floor until the body is in a straight line, then pull alternate knees to chest, and finally from this position, with hips off floor, swing alternate legs to right angle.

If you will keep the abdominal muscles in tone, you will be much less susceptible to fatigue—and you will never get the middle-age spread.

Woman's Quiz

Q. How can butter be distinguished from oleomargarine?
A. Pure butter will foam freely when melted and oleomargarine will sputter and foam very slightly.
Q. Can anything be done to improve the taste of soup, when too much salt has been added?
A. Grate a raw potato and cook it with the soup for a few minutes. The potato will absorb the salt.
Q. Can you state the formula used by women in ancient Egypt to preserve their complexions?
A. Egyptian ladies used the following mixture as a daily face-wash: Bullock's bile whipped-up with ostrich egg, oil, dough, refined onion and haitet resin, mixed into a pap, and added to fresh milk.

Quintet of Lovely Matrons Listed Among Opera Visitors

• • • THE PRESENCE of attractive and interesting visitors will add to the brilliance of the opera season, just two weeks hence. Latest among the throng who will lend charm to the attendant social activities are the two lovely matrons who will be with Mrs. Howell R. Hanson and Mrs. Oda T. Spert at their home at the Biltmore hotel.

One of these is Mrs. Leonard O'Connor, of Cortland, N. Y., who needs no introduction to Atlantans, because she made many friends here several years ago when she visited Mrs. Virlin Moore. Mrs. O'Connor plans to arrive the weekend of April 26, which is also the date set for the arrival of the other visitor, Mrs. Leona Whitman, from Miami Beach. Mrs. Whitman and her Atlanta hostess are close friends, the trio having met in Miami, where the former spends the winter season at the Whitman hotel, and Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Spert maintain a home on beautiful Pine Tree drive. The Miami season is drawing to a close, and Mrs. Whitman, who is planning a return to the east, will stop here for the festive opera season en route to her summer home.

Although they will not be guests of Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Spert, Mrs. Oscar Thompson, of Miami Beach; Mrs. Donna Harter and Mrs. Frederick Urban, of New York, will also be here for the season at the Biltmore hotel, and will be included in the round of parties to be given. Mrs. Thompson, like the Atlantans, resides on Pine Tree drive in Miami Beach, while Mrs. Harter and Mrs. Urban, who are sisters, spend the greater part of the fall and winter season in Miami.

The trio will be special guests attending the elaborate luncheon planned for Monday, April 28, by Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Spert at the Biltmore hotel for Mrs. O'Connor and Mrs. Whitman. The Atlantans and their guests will also attend the party to be given on Tuesday evening, April 29, at the Piedmont Driving Club for the opera super-dinner, following "Faust," with Mr. and Mrs. John E. Smith as hosts.

• • • LAST WEEK found their host of friends looking forward with much excitement to the arrival of Susan and Peter Pund and their small daughter, Susan Jr., of Quincy, Mass., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Broyles on Peachtree road. But today finds the same friends somewhat disappointed, for the Punds leave this morning for Charleston, S. C., after an all-too-brief stay, and a fairly tantalizing glimpse.

Susan and Peter were the guests of Augusta relatives before coming to Atlanta, and in her gossip column in the Augusta Herald last week Ruth Brigham commented on their visit as follows:

"Very few arrivals will create as much interest and excitement as that of the 'Peter' Punds, of Quincy, Mass., when they arrive today to visit Augusta relatives, his mother, Mrs. C. T. Pund, and Susan Pund's sisters, Mrs. Thomas Barrett Jr. and Mrs. Julian Barrett. . . . "Of course, we all remember 'Peter' Pund as big, blond and handsome captain of a champion Tech football team . . . and we remember Susan as the lovely blond Susan Broyles, of Atlanta, who captivated the Tech stag line and walked off with the hero of the gridiron. . . . "But we're still to meet young Susan, two-year-old daughter, who will be the center of an adoring group of relatives here and in Atlanta, who are seeing her for the first time. . . . "The Henry Punds arrived, car, nurse, Baby Susan, and all, in Charleston today, by boat, and their all-too-short visit with Augusta relatives will be terminated Saturday when they go up to Atlanta to visit Susan's father and other relatives, and have the baby christened by Dr. Richard Orme Flynn, who performed the christening ceremony for all the members of the Broyles family for a long time."

• • • SIX-MONTH-OLD STEPHEN BARNETT III was the center of attraction on Easter Sunday when members of his family congregated from near and far to see him christened. The baby, you know, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Barnett Jr., the latter having been before her marriage Josephine Meador.

Dr. William Gardner performed the christening ceremony in the Winship Chapel of the First Presbyterian church, following the Easter morning church services.

Coming all the way from Maxwell Field, Ala., to witness the rites were Captain and Mrs. Troup Miller and their daughters, Judy and Marilyn, who arrived on Friday and spent the weekend with Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Meador, on Peachtree circle. Mrs. Miller, you know, is the former Julia Meador, of this city.

Unusual sentiment predominated in the choice of little Stephen's christening robe, for it was hand-made by Mrs. Frank Smith for his father at the time of his baptism. Fashioned of sheer white batiste, the robe is handsomely trimmed with exquisite lace and delicate embroidery.

The baby is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Meador and Dr. Steve Barnett and the late Mrs. Barnett.

. . . Mrs. Ryburn Clay assisting in entertaining in the reception hall. . . Mrs. Joe Boland, Julia Block, Betty DuBoise and Ann Skidmore presiding at the punch table. . . Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Perkins and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Daniel signing the guest book. . . Mary Nelson Beam presiding at the coffee table, and using the handsome silver coffee urn given the museum by members of the Junior League. . . Mrs. Edwin McCarty, new president of the league, with Mr. McCarty and Mr. and Mrs. William Parker talking with Mrs. Murdoch Eguen and Mrs. Reginald Fleet. . . Little Beverly Griffith Dobbs receiving thanks from Mrs. Glenn for the exquisite lilies given for the affair, and sent by plane from Bermuda by

The Atlanta Woman's Club elected officers at the meeting held yesterday, the group including, front row, left to right, Mrs. Tom Brooke, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Conway Hunter, first vice president; Mrs. Howard Pattillo, who was re-elected president; Mrs. Conrad Walden, treasurer, and Mrs. John F. Echols, recording secretary; back row, left to right, Mrs. M. L. Throver, third vice president; Mrs. W. Clyde Turner, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph M. Tate, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. David Hogg, parliamentarian. Mrs. E. W. Gottenstrater, second vice president, and Mrs. E. E. Bengston, auditor, were not present when the photograph was made. The nominating committee, who returned the slate, included Mrs. George Brown, chairman, Mesdames George Stanley, John F. McDougald, Jack Savage, and Jessie Bankston.

her uncle, Beverly Griffith. . .

Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. Laurie Webster and Colonel Benjamin M. Bailey talking with Wilbur Glenn. . . Martha Edmondson and Lupton Rainwater arriving with Mr. and Mrs. John Seamon, of Lansing, Mich., who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Glenn. . . Mrs. Raoul Fernandez, whose marriage was a recent event, looking very smart in blue sheer. . . Mrs. Charles T. Pottinger and Herbert Oliver discussing plans for the horse show next month. . . Mrs. James D. Robinson in a handsome black lace model.

Atlantans Speak At Y.W.C.A. Meet

Atlanta Y. W. C. A. leaders attending the area conference in Augusta April 15-16 will hear Miss Rhoda McCulloch, Miss Henrietta Roelofs and Miss Annie Kate Gilbert, of the national staff, speaking on trends and changes in local programs and will take part in discussions with other Y. members from Georgia and South Carolina.

Mrs. Frank J. Henry, of Atlanta, who has served as conference program chairman, announces that the keynote address presented by Miss McCulloch will be "Our Y. W. C. A. Heritage and the Challenge of Today." Miss McCulloch is editor of the "Woman's Press." Miss Roelofs, former chairman of the national public affairs committee, will give the concluding speech entitled "Preparation for a Future World Community." Miss Gilbert, who is national adviser for this region, will outline plans for the U. S. O. and how local Y. W. C. A.'s will be affected.

"Change in Our Social Fabric as a Result of Defense Program" will be discussed from the standpoint of education by Dr. Buell Gallagher, president of Talladega College, Alabama, of government camps and community relationships by Captain Kennedy, morale officer of the Fourth Corps Area. Miss Mary Jane Willett, Miss Augusta Roberts of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. E. Stockman, of Greenville, S. C., will lead discussions on new trends and problems in local associations. Various departmental programs and suggestions pertaining to young married women, Girl Reserves, camps will be shared by board, staff and committee members present.

In addition to Mrs. Henry, Atlantans who have made tentative reservations are Mrs. Howard See, Mrs. H. B. Trimble, Miss Mildred Wells, from the board of directors; Miss Metta May Mitchell, Mrs. Cullen B. Gosnell, Mrs. Mary Kate Duskun, Miss Betsey Dupuy, staff; Miss Elizabeth DeLay and Mrs. William Gayle, business girls department; Mrs. Ralph Edwards, Mrs. James Sargent, Mrs. R. H. Tilly, Mrs. W. A. Lowe, industrial; Mrs. Herbert Roth, Mrs. Jack Carne, Mrs. Carl Howard, girl reserve department.

En Route to Puerto Rico

Captain and Mrs. Charles L. Bean and little Miss Nancy Jane Bean were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, of 847 Gilbert street, S. E., and Mrs. P. L. Bean, of 872 E. Confederate avenue, S. E., last week. Captain Bean and family were en route to Charleston, S. C., from which point they sailed for San Juan, Puerto Rico, aboard United States Army transport yesterday. Since January of this year, Captain Bean has been battery commander of Battery "B," First Battalion, 13th Coast Artillery, at Fort Barrancas, Fla., until recent War Department orders transferred him to Puerto Rican department.

MONTHLY PAIN

Delightfully Relieved by New

SPECIAL

PRESCRIPTION

Do you suffer monthly from cramps? Here at last is a safe prescription especially made for you. Written by a physician for his own women patients, they praised it so much that it is now offered to all women. It is called Tempo, and comes in tablet form in two sizes, 20c and 40c.

Tempo tablets do far more than merely relieve pain. They soothe the nervous irritability and promote relaxation. They are proving a blessing to many women unable to find relief by using remedies meant for general use. They contain no opiates. Originally women paid the physician five dollars to get this prescription. Now you can get the same thing in Tempo tablets for only 20c or 40c. At all good druggists.—(adv.)

Miss Frances Campbell Weds E. C. Hughes at Cathedral

Enlisting the sincere and cordial interest of a host of friends and relatives throughout the south is the announcement made today by Mrs. E. F. Campbell, of Cleveland, Tenn., of the marriage of her only daughter, Miss Frances Warker Campbell, to Edmund Corrie Hughes, of Bolton and Marietta, son of Mrs. M. A. Hughes, of Bolton.

The wedding of the prominent young couple was solemnized on Sunday at 5:30 o'clock at the Cathedral of St. Philip by Dean Raimundo de Oviés.

Preceding the ceremony the St. Philip's choir, accompanied by Tom Brumby III, organist, presented a musical program. Palms formed a background for cathedral candelabra holding lighted white tapers, which decorated the chancel. The bronze altar vases were filled with Easter lilies and white snapdragons. Adorning the walls of the church were white candles adorned with smilax.

Escorting guests to their places were Jack Clark, Roser Neal Little and W. L. Tumlin, all of Marietta and W. L. Tumlin, all of Marietta, of Montgomery, Ala. Donald Hughes, of Bolton, served as best man for his brother.

Miss Jacquelyn Smith, the bride's maid of honor and only attendant, chose a chic navy crepe dress graced with a beige leather pocket in the shape of an eagle. She wore an off-the-face navy straw hat and matching accessories. A cluster of purple orchids adorned her shoulder.

The pretty brunette bride was given in marriage by her uncle, E. Jack Smith. Further enhancing her striking beauty was her stylish navy gabardine Milgrim suit, the jacket of which was trimmed with gold buttons. She wore an Ernest Charles navy straw hat trimmed with a beige embroidered veil. The chic costume was accented by navy gabardine and kid accessories and a shoulder cluster of white orchids and valley lilies. She carried a white satin prayer book and a lace handkerchief, which had been brought her from Peru by her aunt, Miss Elizabeth Smith, of Rockwood, Tenn. Her only jewelry were dainty cameo earrings, which had belonged to her mother.

Mrs. Campbell chose for her daughter's wedding a chic black crepe gown trimmed with white and worn with black accessories and a shoulder cluster of purple orchids. Mrs. Hughes, the groom's mother, wore a navy crepe model accented by white accessories and a shoulder cluster of gardenias. Mrs. E. Jack Smith, the bride's aunt, was becomingly attired in navy offset by navy accessories and a shoulder spray of camellias and baby's breath.

The bridal couple left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip to the mountains of Tennessee, after which they will reside in Chattanooga on South Crest road.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. E. F. Campbell, of Cleveland, Tenn., has resided here for the past year with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jack Smith. Mrs. Campbell is the former Miss Laura Smith, daughter of the late Professor W. W. Smith and Mrs. Smith, of Rockwood, Tenn. H. E. Campbell, of Talladega, Ala., is the bride's brother.

Mrs. Hughes graduated from Wesleyan College in Macon with an A. B. degree. While she attended college she was soloist at Mulberry Street Methodist church, a member of the glee club, and sang over radio station WMAZ. She was awarded a scholarship in voice for one year at Wesleyan.

After completing her education she became affiliated with radio station WSB here and was soloist at the Cathedral of St. Philip. She took the leading feminine role in the operetta, "The Merry Widow," which was recently given in Marietta and Atlanta. She also won first place in Phil Spitalny's "Hunt for Talent" contest here in 1939 and has been selected as guest soloist for the Kiwanis International Convention, which takes place here in June.

The bride, who possesses a beautiful dramatic soprano voice, is a tall and slender brunette and her charm and graciousness of manner have endeared her to a host of friends.

Mr. Hughes, who is the son of Mrs. M. A. Hughes and the late Mr. Hughes, of Bolton, is the brother of Mrs. Virgil Moore and Donald Hughes, of Bolton. His mother is the former Miss Alice McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. McDonald, of Bolton. His maternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. James S. Hughes, of North Carolina.

The groom attended the University of Georgia, in Athens, from where he was graduated in the class of 1937 with an A. B. degree in journalism. While attending the university he was a member of Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalistic fraternity, the Glee Club and Scabbard and Blade. During the summer of 1936 he served his internship on The Atlanta Constitution.

Following graduation from college he became associated with the news and editorial staff of the Cobb County Times in Marietta, and in June, 1937, he was named managing editor of that paper. Since 1939 he has held the position of acting editor and advertising editor of the aforementioned publication.

He was a member of the Cobb County Times staff, when that newspaper won four first prizes in the National Editorial Association contest in 1938. While in Marietta he belonged to the Kiwanis and Marietta Golf clubs, as well as the Cogs Club, of which he was vice president. He took the male leading part in the operetta "The Merry Widow."

On April 1 he was commissioned a first lieutenant in the United States Army, stationed at Fort Oglethorpe.

Garden Division.

The garden division of the Civic Club of West End meets Wednesday at the clubhouse at 2:30 o'clock, with the chairman, Mrs. H. D. Sanders, presiding. Mrs. L. A. Hill, delegate to the meeting of the Garden Club of Georgia, meeting recently in Savannah, will make her report. Mrs. T. A. Slaughter will talk on a succession of color in the garden, and Mrs. P. G. Saxton will talk on pools and fish.

Mrs. Julian M. Fluker, at the left, and Mrs. C. A. Rauschenberg inspect a trio of handsome prizes which will be awarded at the Tulip Study Club's annual tulip show on Thursday. Mrs. Fluker, who is prize chairman for the show, holds the silver vase offered by Mrs. J. J. Nicholson, president of the club, and the silver tray awarded by Myron E. Freeman. Mrs. Rauschenberg, treasurer of the club, holds the silver bowl offered as a trophy by Mrs. Clyde King Jr., valued member of the club. Numerous cash prizes will also be awarded at the show.

Miss Stephens Becomes Bride Of Mr. Clark at Home Rites

Miss Dorothy Eugenia Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Roy Stephens, became the bride of John Leonard Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Clark, of Radford, Va., Saturday afternoon at a lovely home ceremony taking place at the residence of the bride's parents on Rogers avenue.

Rev. Harry B. Wade, pastor of the West End Presbyterian church, officiated at 5 o'clock in the presence of a limited number of relatives and friends. An appropriate musical program was presented by Miss Virginia McCollum.

An altar was arranged in the living room and was banked with plants and other rich greenery. Placed before the arrangement were two large baskets filled with Easter lilies and white gladioli while flanking either side were cathedral candelabra holding white tapers. White snapdragons were arranged in plateau effect on the mantel.

Mrs. Dana Gibbs Jr. was the matron of honor and was becomingly gowned in a model of beige crepe worn with matching accessories. Her flowers were talismans roses. Mrs. Wiley Kite was the bridesmaid and was gowned in a model of dusty pink crepe. Little Joyce Moody and Thelma Almon, cousins of the bride, lighted the candles at the altar.

Entering with her father, James Roy Stephens, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride was met at the altar by the groom and DeWitt Beeson, who was best man. She was beautifully gowned in a powder blue redingote model featuring a model of powder blue with white. Her flowers were carnations.

During the evening the bridal couple left for their wedding trip to an unannounced destination and upon their return will reside at 1339 West Peachtree street.

Among out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, parents of the groom, of Radford, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Dana Gibbs, Columbus; Misses Virginia McCollum, Rebecca McElwain, Mrs. Lorelle Trammell, John McCollum, all of Fayetteville; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Stephens, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Austelle, Decatur, Ala.; Mrs. Helen Prior, Gloucester, Mass.; Mrs. William J. Lee Sr., up town Creek, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Davis, Athens, Ga.; and Mrs. K. W. McElwain, Fayetteville, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammond and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miles assisted in entertaining guests, who were invited for 7 o'clock. Present were Misses Martha Blalock, Mimi Pappenhimer, Helen Jones, Janet Alcorn, Emily Anderson, Mary Jane Campbell, Gladys Randall, Carvel Long and Griggs Shaefer Jr., Marvin McClatchey, Alex Windsor, of Augusta; Jack Ewing, Owen Perry Jr., Wharton Mitchell, John Tye III, and Pat Bobbins, Herbie Rogers, Daniel Beatie, Mrs. William P. Leonard and the hostess and honor guests.

The table was overlaid with white net posed over satin, the centerpiece having been formed of white tulips, snapdragons and delicate bridal wreath. Silver candelabra holding white tapers completed the appointments.

turing an accordion pleated skirt and worn with navy accessories. Her only ornament was an amethyst necklace, a gift of the groom. Her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stephens entertained at a reception for their daughter and Mr. Clark. White and pastel flowers were used in the dining room as the decorations. The table was covered with a white hand-embroidered cloth and forming the centerpiece was a three-tiered wedding cake flanked on either side by crystal candelsticks.

Miss Aileen Brown kept the bride's book and assisting in entertaining were Mesdames Robert Moody Jr., Edgar Tatum, L. D. Almon, Effie Edmondson and Miss Ruth Stephens.

Mrs. Stephens, mother of the bride, was handsomely gowned in a model of navy crepe trimmed with white. Her flowers were carnations.

Mrs. Clark, the groom's mother, wore a model of powder blue with a pink hat and her flowers were carnations.

Mayor, Power Officer Confer On Bus Plan

LeCraw Anxious To Speed Elimination of Street Cars.

Jackson Dick, vice president of the Georgia Power Company, and Mayor LeCraw will confer today on the mayor's request that the company abandon the street railway system and substitute a system of trackless trolleys and buses within the next two years.

LeCraw said he made the request in order to expedite consummation of a program to speed up vehicular traffic, adding that the maximum benefits of studies already made cannot be obtained while street cars make application impossible.

Company officials already have assured administration leaders that all cars will be replaced within five or six years, but LeCraw believes something should be done much earlier than that.

in replacing trolley cars out of income from the system," LeCraw said. "I think it should proceed more rapidly and finance the program through other methods, making the advantages of a trackless downtown area available at the very earliest possible moment."

Under its program for replacing the street cars, the company had planned to eliminate trolleys about June 1 on three Grant Park lines and substitute buses. Trackless trolleys were planned on the Stewart avenue, lines with an express trackless trolley service to Fort McPherson.

Because of the great demand on industry by national defense projects, company officials yesterday said this may be delayed for the next several months.

Pact To Halt Hatred, Soviet Press Asserts

Settlement of Political, Economic Issues To Follow.

MOSCOW, April 14.—(AP)—The neutrality act by which Soviet Russia and Japan recognized each other's frontiers in northeast Asia is to be followed by a general settlement of outstanding economic and political issues in the interests of peace the Soviet press indicated today.

The pact, signed Sunday in the Kremlin by Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov and Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka was hailed by Pravda, the Communist party organ, as a far-reaching step to make good neighbors out of the two traditional rivals.

The new pledges "are going to be filled, of course," said Pravda. The paper added that the two countries were going to "get rid of everything which aroused hatred between them."

(In Tokyo, however, the press interpreted the pact as chiefly "a blow to the activities and policies of the United States in the Pacific." And as a strengthening of the three-power alliance of Tokyo, Berlin and Rome.)

Pravda said the accord cleared the way "for regulation of other unsolved questions between U. S. S. R. and Japan" and would help found an era of political and economic co-operation between the two powers.

Milledgeville, High Schools To Be Enlarged
Alto Hospitals Prepare for Latin Tests

Budget measures to provide for the opening of a new annex at Alto Tuberculosis sanatorium and a new building at Milledgeville state hospital were made yesterday by Governor Talmadge.

At the same time, however, the Governor reduced allowances for overhead expenses in the budgets of various departments and institutions.

The Alto sanatorium budget was increased from $57,819 to $75,906 for the present quarter and sanatorium officials were directed by the Governor to make provisions for 200 additional patients to be housed in the annex. Present capacity of the sanatorium is 375.

To provide for the opening of a new building for white male convalescent patients at Milledgeville, the Governor cut the budget for supplies $5,000, for heat, light and water, $1,250; for printing and publicity, $50; for equipment, $3,000, and for repairs, $200.

$25,000 Cut
The estimated cost of supplies and materials at Alto was cut $2,500; repairs, $1,000, and equipment, $1,000.

For the second successive quarter, the State Department of Health did not ask for any funds from the state, still having a surplus carried over from last year. Proposed expenditures, however, were cut by Governor Talmadge from $167,220 to $157,220.

A reduction from $12,915 to $11,906 was made in the budget of the Department of Natural Resources. State Geologist A. S. Fulcrum has his pay cut from $230 to $200. The chemist who will succeed J. T. Adair, resigned, will receive $150 instead of the $190 previously paid.

The State Parks Division had its budget cut from $7,527 to $6,264 and the names of Chester Duckworth, of Blairsville, a ranger, and A. W. Goodman, superintendent of the Waycross park, were stricken as superintendent at Indian Springs.

McLain Salary.
The salary of Miss Annette McLain, curator of the state museum, paid jointly by the divisions of wildlife, geology, parks and mines and mining, was stricken from all the budgets.

Moscow-Tokyo Treaty Stuns Chinese Reds

Nipponese Communists Expected To Quit Comintern.

CHUNGKING, April 14.—(AP)—Chinese Communists appeared today to have been stunned by the Japanese-Soviet pact of neutrality signed Sunday in Moscow.

Their eventual reaction was awaited with interest by observers in China because they always have insisted that a Japanese-Soviet agreement was impossible, and have based their co-operation with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek on a common anti-Japanese program.

In recent months, however, this co-operation was threatened by clashes between Chinese regulars and Chinese Communist troops who were dispersed when they refused to obey orders to transfer their operations north of the Yellow river.

Informed sources expressed belief that Chinese Communists' only chance of maintaining their present status in China would be in an official severance of all connections with the Comintern in Moscow. If they continue to follow Moscow, these quarters said, it was likely their influence would deteriorate rapidly.

Chinese military experts expressed the view that any new Japanese drive in China as a result of the pact would not prove decisive in the nearly four-year-old war.

The influential newspaper Ta Kung Pao declared that the pact almost certainly presaged a but break of war somewhere else in the Pacific area.

High Schools Prepare for Latin Tests
Thirteenth Annual State Tournament To Be Held April 19.

Latin students in Georgia high schools are brushing up on the study of Vergil this week in preparation for the thirteenth annual Georgia Latin tournament April 19.

Germans Admit British Land Crew in Norway
BERLIN, April 14.—(AP)—The crew of a British destroyer landed at a little Norwegian fishing village north of Tromsø Saturday night, occupied a building used for fish packing, removed supplies and burned the building, it was reported today by DNB, official German news agency.

The agency said that the bad weather prevented an attack by the German air force and that the destroyer departed at dawn.

Revenue Department against the Wildlife Division for the sale of hunting and fishing licenses was stricken out by the Governor.

Remark—"I guess that will surprise everybody," Governor Talmadge made the first wage increase of his present administration. He increased the salary of Mrs. Ben Cooper, secretary to Commissioner Zack Cravey, head of the wildlife division, from $130 to $150 per month. The budget for that division was fixed at $42,342.

Atlantan Wins Essay Contest

Joseph Ellis Jr., a 16-year-old Commercial High school student, has been selected as the state winner of the annual patriotic essay sponsored by the woman's auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Young Ellis lives at 761 Confederate avenue.

Other winners include Jimmie Raiford, of Meigs High school; Helen Parden, of Rossville High school, and Frances McAbee, also of Rossville High school.

The subject of the essays was "One Nation Indivisible." Winners were announced by Mrs. Lucille Grace Irvin.

Christmas Cleaning Aid Plea Detours for War
BUFFALO, N. Y., April 14.—(AP) A Buffalo housewife's note to a friend asking help with the Christmas housecleaning returned to the sender after traveling to Europe, where part of it was censored.

Mrs. Joseph Vrtel wrote the letter December 19 to Mrs. Albert Osada, who lives near Holland, N. Y. Postal clerks forwarded it to the Netherlands. Somewhere a censor struck out a line, but Mrs. Vrtel can't remember what it said.

250,000 in Washington To See Cherry Trees
WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP) The capital's famous Japanese cherry blossoms along the Potomac river were in full bloom today for a throng of tourists estimated by police at a quarter of a million.

All hotels, rooming houses and tourist cabins in Washington and vicinity were filled up Saturday night, and city officials said many visitors must have obtained accommodations in private homes.

Draft Boards Files Ruled Public Record

Only Matter Defined Confidential To Be Withheld.

All information concerning draft registrants, except that which regulations specifically define as confidential, is a matter of public record and should be given to persons making a legitimate inquiry, a notice from national selective service headquarters yesterday stated.

Local board and state headquarters were urged to co-operate in answering inquiries for non-confidential information if it does not "interfere with the orderly functioning of selective service machinery."

Information defined in draft regulations as "confidential" is as follows:

Records pertaining to the physical condition of a registrant; all answers on the questionnaire under the subject "dependency" except names and addresses of claimed dependents; and questions on previous military service.

The fact that a registrant has asked deferment on grounds of dependency or physical unfitness, and his final classification were listed as non-confidential.

A registrant is entitled to know of all entries on his own record, including his questionnaire and record of physical examination, it was said.

Regulations provide, however, that inspection of confidential records is limited to draft officials, who have to do with the classification of particular registrants, and United States district attorneys or their authorized representatives.

No person, except authorized officials, are entitled to search or handle the records of a board. It is the duty of the custodians to read, and if necessary, point out the information requested.

Whether you have a few suitcases or many items of furniture to be moved you can find somebody for the job by turning to Classification 84—"Moving and Storage."

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, April 14.—(P)—The average price of middling 16-16 1/2 cotton, at 10 designated southern spot markets today was 7 points higher at 11.22 cents a pound for a new season's high; average for the past 30 market days was 10.80 cents, marking 7-8-inch average was 11.01 cents a pound.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(P)—A quiet but persistent mill demand and some professional short covering boosted cotton futures for final net gains of 6 to 13 points today.

The list at one time was within 2 to 7 points of seasonal highs. A slight increase in offerings near the close shaded the top figures.

Trading circles heard that some buying of contracts was based on expectation of favorable action on farm legislation this week.

Reports that London and Washington were negotiating a United States purchase of a large quantity of Egyptian cotton stirred comment. Some quarters suggested the proposed deal was explained by the shortage of better grade long staple cotton in the delta region of the central belt.

Exports Saturday nil. Season so far 831,440 bales; port receipts 12,457. Port stocks 3,390,306.

SHE LOVED A SPY

The Submarine Leaves With the Papers; Paul Reassures Joan.

By Sylvia Taylor

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

They watched as the officers descended the rope ladder and were rowed back to the submarine. In the darkness it was hard to distinguish them. It was like some evil mirage, as their vague shapes disappeared down the hatch, then slowly the submarine began to submerge. There was something terrifying about it to Joan to see this giant shell sink into the sea, carrying with it men, guns and plans for bombing planes which would be used against innocent victims—to see this complete organized unit submerging into watery depths from which it would travel like an ominous messenger carrying death and destruction.

"It's the most terrible thing I've ever seen," Joan said, moving closer to Paul. "It's symbolic of all the hidden terror in the world today."

"And it's my job to do all I can to stop it," Paul reminded her. "You'll never stop Karl and his kind. There are too many of them," Thomas said sadly. "It would take years."

"We'll stop them all right, no matter how long it takes, and every little bit helps. If we can get to the bottom of this unit, it will frighten the others. Every man in the F. B. I. is working day and night tracking down these people. We'll catch up with every one of them eventually."

Joan's heart was full of pride in his words. Paul was a fighter. He never gave up. He would see things through to the end, no matter how bitter, just as he was doing now. He was the kind of man who fought for a cause. The kind of man who in his small way did much to make the world a better place to live in.

Paul caught her glance and smiled. She was clutching her purse and gloves, ready to depart, as he had said, "at a moment's notice." "We're not going to get out of this as soon as I thought," he told her now as they went back into the lounge. "May as well sit down and relax."

"Not me," Thomas insisted. "I'm going to stay on deck. If Karl does come, I don't want to make things look any worse than they already are."

"Odd that Karl trusts you here with us," Paul meditated.

"He trusts me," Thomas declared, "because he knows I'm afraid of him."

But though neither Joan nor Paul would admit it, both thought that Karl was too clever to overlook the possibility that Thomas might aid Karl's prisoners. Had he deliberately planned it this way?

"Drink your tea, dear," Paul advised. "This may be the last food we'll have for quite a while."

They smiled, sending each other a message of courage.

The ship lay quietly. They had not moved since the arrival of the submarine.

"Why aren't we going?" Joan asked. "Do you suppose the submarine is coming back?"

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21 and April 19 (ARIES)—The entire day is filled with influences that produce idealism, therefore new beginnings, encounters and daily occurrences may have meanings that are beneath the surface. Not an especially auspicious day for new beginnings or assuming added financial responsibilities.

April 20 and May 20 (TAURUS)—During the entire day and until 5:30 p. m. favors attending to old matters and affairs under consideration. After 5:30 p. m. favors writing communications and written matters.

May 21 and June 20 (GEMINI)—The entire day may be considered favorable with the better part of the day before 3:41 p. m. Appointments, meetings, conferences, financial affairs, public matters should result in much harmony. The period past 3:41 p. m. favors sticking to routine.

June 21 and July 22 (CANCER)—The morning hours and until 1 p. m. are likely to be filled with petty irritations. This is a time to use caution in travel, communications, in the making of contracts and anything that requires your signature. The remainder of the day and evening you will want to work at full speed, as much can be accomplished.

July 23 and August 22 (LEO)—An excellent day for dealing with matters pertaining to the general public, professional people and politics. Some excellent results should be attained today. The best aspects for the day operate previous to 3:30 p. m.

August 23 and September 22 (VIRGO)—An excellent day for dealing with matters pertaining to the general public, professional and literary people. Some excellent results should be attained today. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 3:30 p. m.

September 23 and October 22 (LIBRA)—This is an excellent day for important agreements, sociability and work relating to entertainment. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 3 p. m.

October 23 and November 21 (SCORPIO)—The day favors more attention to necessary affairs and ideas that have been hanging fire for some time. The day favors using diplomacy around older people. The evening favors domestic affairs.

November 22 and December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—The period previous to 2:07 p. m. does not appear to be conducive to pleasant contacts and is likely to bring a feeling of tensions, which can result in irritations and disagreements. After 2:07 p. m. favors social contacts with both young and old.

December 22 and January 19 (CAPRICORN)—Good results should be derived from new beginnings today. Promises, interviews, communications, travel, financial interests should be surrounded with much optimism and favor.

January 20 and February 18 (AQUARIUS)—Between 9:01 a. m. and 2:28 p. m. is the most favorable part of the day, when you should look at the world in a practical, matter-of-fact way. This is an especially good time for general business and hard work. After 2:28 p. m. the new or extraordinary should be shunned.

February 19 and March 20 (PISCES)—Today until 7:08 p. m. you should go ahead with courage and confidence when you can advance your ambitions, but don't waste time in frivolities. After 7:08 p. m. favors correspondence, conference, dealings with those in high positions.

WE THE PEOPLE—C. M. Chester, chairman of the radio division of the committee for control of cancer, will appear on "We, the People" tonight to introduce Mrs. Lora Valland, who was cured of cancer after five years in a hospital, over WGST.

Among Gabriel Heatter's other guests will be Mrs. Charles Miller, author of "Cannibals and Orphans," Ted Kessler, clubhouse boy for the National League; and Mrs. D. S. Frasher, in whose grandfather's home Abraham Lincoln died.

Mrs. Miller will describe how the chief of the Digbels in Africa fell in love with her while she and her husband were on an exploration trip. The chief offered to trade his special collection of head-hunting trophies for Mrs. Miller.

MYSTERY DRAMA—"Murder on Display," an original mystery drama of death in a department store, will be presented on "First Nighter" over WGST tonight at 8:30. Barbara Luddy and Les Tremayne are co-stars. Action in the mystery comes in the dimly-lighted interior of a department store after it has been closed to the public. Tremayne plays a detective confronted by his fiancée who confesses she has just shot a man—accidentally. The girl explains that her victim is on the floor of a display window. Search reveals two dead men in the window.

Sidney Marshall wrote the thriller. Background music is by Eric Sagerquist and his orchestra.

BOB HOPE—Bob Hope has heard that "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em," so he's having Hedda Hopper, widely read Hollywood gossip columnist, as guest of honor for his broadcast tonight at 10 o'clock over WSB.

Miss Hopper, one of the best known of the screen's comedienne in her own right, is even better known for the low-down she passes out via newspaper syndicated columns and the air-waves on Hollywood personalities. When she visits the Bob Hope program, she is apt to encounter Jerry Colonna and Brenda and Cobina, themselves given to whispering confidential things over the air. Skinny Ennis and his orchestra and the Six Hits and a Miss are sure to be a hand for the music.

FIBBER MCGEE—Fibber McGee and Molly will stage a double birthday celebration tonight. The first celebration will be during the Fibber McGee and Molly program, at 9:30 p. m. over WSB. It will be occasioned by the sixth anniversary of the radio debut of the comedy team. The second celebration, after the broadcast, will be held in honor of the real birthday of Marion Jordan (Molly).

On April 16, 1935, Marian and Jim Jordan became Fibber McGee and Molly. Although they had been on the air for years, having made their debut in 1924, the Jordans made their first nation-wide success when they adopted the names of Fibber and Molly.

Judge, Council Group Called By Grand Jury

Callaway Ordered To Explain Action in Lottery Cases.

Judge A. W. Callaway, recorder in the Atlanta police court, will appear before the Fulton grand jury today along with other city officials to explain why approximately 200 persons fined in the recorder's court were not bound over to state courts for prosecution under state lottery laws.

Along with Judge Callaway, subpoenas have been served on other city officials, including Mayor Roy LeCraw, Judge Luke Arnold, traffic court recorder, City Council Members G. Dan Bridges, Howard Haire, James E. Jackson, Paul Butler, Frank Wilson and various city policemen who arrested bug operators tried in police court since January 1.

City councilmen ordered to appear before the grand jury are said to have served on Judge Callaway's bench during his absence while various bug cases were up for hearings.

Court Records Studied.
Records studied by the grand jury in special session yesterday revealed that out of the 200-odd fined in police court on lottery charges, only 24 were turned over to the county for prosecution, including approximately a dozen who were held for violation of conditional pardon provisions.

The lottery investigation being waged by the grand jury yesterday took up records of the recorder's court and learned that various lottery offenders had been repeatedly fined since the first of the year.

A further search of court records will be made to determine whether Judge Callaway was presiding over his court at the time the lottery offenders were dismissed with light fines, or if some member of city council was on the bench when the cases came up for trial.

Meter Indictments Seen.
Possibility that indictments may be returned by the grand jury today naming persons accused of defrauding the city by tampering with water meters was apparent yesterday, as the jury attempts to wind up its probe of meter tampering allegations.

Other routine business scheduled for airing today includes five bills of minor nature, alleged pardon racket activities and charges of graft in state offices.

COURT SESSION.
McDONOUGH, Ga., April 14.—Judge G. Ogden Persons has called a special term of Henry county superior court to convene on Monday, April 21.

"If your job is tough get help from S.S.S. Tonic"

Red Cross Drive Under Way in Cobb

MARIETTA, Ga., April 14.—Rapid progress in setting up a Red Cross roll call organization for Cobb county was reported today by Fred Cook, named chairman of that phase of the program at an organization meeting held here recently.

The Cobb county organization, late in getting under way, is under the direction of the Rev. M. O. Sommers, Presbyterian minister, chairman, and Cook, in charge of the roll call.

The county has been divided into professional, business and civic groups, with a chairman appointed for each. Mrs. Fred Morris and Mrs. C. D. Elder have volunteered to speak to P. T. A. groups in each of the city and county consolidated schools, on the needs of and assistance rendered by Red Cross.

Chairman of the activities committees so far named are as follows: Miss Polly Wellons, home service; Dr. J. E. Lester, home hygiene and care of sick; Miss Jean Coleman, nutrition; Bill Tate, life saving; W. Mayes Gober, first aid; Junior Welfare League, production work, and Mayes Ward, disaster relief.

Four directors appointed by Mr. Sommers are A. V. Cortelyou, J. E. Massey, Judge J. H. Hawkins and Guy Northcutt. Miss Margaret Carpenter is secretary and A. D. Little is treasurer.

ARMY in Georgia

Contract for $444,000 for road pavement for the Atlanta General Depot, the army's $15,000,000 quartermaster project now under construction at Conley, Ga., has been awarded to Hugh McMath, of Columbus, Ga., it was announced yesterday by Fourth Corps Area headquarters.

Contract for $60,307 for construction of roads at Fort Benning has been awarded also to the Stillwell Construction Company, of Macon, it was announced.

Other contracts announced for Georgia were $24,500 to Carwood Manufacturing Company, of Winder, for 35,000 pairs of cotton khaki trousers, and $17,250 to Stephens Garment Company, Toccoa, for 20,000 pairs of cotton khaki trousers.

ALIEN POPULATION LOW IN THIS AREA

The eight states of the Fourth Corps Area have a low percentage of alien population, it was revealed yesterday in figures issued by the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice, alien registration division.

The figures are: Georgia, 4,849; Tennessee, 5,019; North Carolina, 5,331; South Carolina, 725; Alabama, 4,952; Mississippi, 3,003; Louisiana, 16,601, and Florida, 38,218.

The total number of aliens in the United States is 4,741,971, with the largest populations in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

LIEUTENANT MCGINTY ENDS ARMY COURSE

Lieutenant Stewart McGinty Jr.,

QMC, formerly with the Trust Company of Georgia, has concluded a course of instruction at the Army Industrial College in Washington and been assigned to duty at the Kansas City (Mo.) quartermaster depot, it was announced yesterday.

New students from Atlanta coming into the present class of the college include Lieutenant King Kelley, Lieutenant John A. North and Lieutenant Henry R. Bauer, all QMC.

TO ACQUIRE 54,000 ACRES FOR BENNING

Wiley B. Hampton, chief of the land acquisition division of the Soil Conservation Service, is expected at Fort Benning this week to begin the task of acquiring 54,000 additional acres for Fort Benning, the Army's largest reservation.

Hampton is expected to bring a staff of 12 to 18 assistants, so that work of acquiring the land will be expedited. The acreage is in Georgia and Alabama. Plans for purchasing the additional land were announced several weeks ago.

Cream Plant Contract Is Let at Marietta

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
MARIETTA, Ga., April 14.—Contract has been awarded for an ice cream plant for Economy Ice Cream Company, to cost approximately $21,500, according to G. H. Hunt, owner of the business.

Contract for the building was let to G. P. Donnellan, Atlanta contractor, for $17,500. The building will be of solid brick construction, one-story. It will cover approximately 72 by 78 feet.

The contract for equipment and refrigeration has not yet been let, according to Hunt, who expects these items to add approximately $4,000 to the contract.

Mrs. Annie L. Moore, one-time queen of Atlanta's lottery rackets who was jailed after she failed to comply with provisions of a conditional pardon issued by Governor Rivers, Saturday was denied her freedom on a habeas corpus action brought before Superior Judge J. T. Grice, of Claxton, Ga. The woman was returned to Tattall prison to complete her prison sentence, according to Bond Almond, solicitor of Fulton criminal court.

Herb Eidson, former East Point deputy sheriff, will go on trial in superior court this morning as an alleged member of a Ku Klux Klan flogging crew credited with terrorizing that suburban sector. Eidson's first appearance before a Fulton jury on the charge resulted in a mistrial. Bailey Cawthon, faced with the same charges, is scheduled for trial Wednesday.

BECAUSE YOU DO INHALE

this is vital information!

IT'S a known fact: sometimes every smoker inhales... and more smoke contacts more of the nose and throat passages.

So—chances of irritation naturally increase.

But there are tremendous differences in cigarettes!

They are reported by distinguished doctors—who measured irritant qualities of the five leading brands. Here are the facts:—

ON COMPARING—THE IRRITANT QUALITY IN THE SMOKE OF THE FOUR OTHER LEADING BRANDS WAS FOUND TO AVERAGE MORE THAN THREE TIMES THAT OF THE STRIKINGLY CONTRASTED PHILIP MORRIS... AND THE IRRITATION LASTS MORE THAN FIVE TIMES AS LONG!

That's real difference—real superiority—provided by Philip Morris for your pleasure and protection. Why wait longer to enjoy it?
